NEUTRALS WORK ON BERLIN PLAN

Administration Is "Confused," Dewey Asserts

"Coming Apart At The Seams," GOP Nominee Declares

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 14 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey declared tonight the Truman administration is running "in a dozen different directions at once" and "coming apart at the seams."

Campaigning in President Truman's home state, the Republican candidate for the White House smacked at the Missourian's Democratic regime in addressing a crowd of 15,000 persons jammed into Municipal Auditorium.

Dewey called the present administration "tired" and "confused." The crowd cheered and whistled. Auditorium officials said the hall normally seats 12,000 and that 3,000 extra chairs had been set up. They were all filled and standees rimmed the walls a half hour before Dewey entered. Dewey himself announced 6,000 persons were outside.

Dewey smiled and waved.

Longest, Noisiest Ovation

The ovation was the most prolonged and noisiest he had received during the campaign.

The GOP candidate got a hand and some laughs when he said: "We have been treated to an almost daily demonstration of what happens in government when there is no team work — when everybody calls the signals and nobody carries the ball."

Dewey picked "good government" as his theme—something he said is lacking under Mr. Truman.

"We know the kind of government we have now," the New York Governor said.

"It is tired. It is confused. It scolds and complains.

"It runs off in a dozen different directions at once. It tries to frighten people. It divides them. It is coming apart at the seams."

Hits Pendergast Organization

Making his second trip into President Truman's home state in two weeks in another bid for Missouri's 15 electoral votes, Dewey took an indirect crack at the Kansas City Pendergast organization. It was that organization which backed Mr. Truman for the United States Senate and put him on a springboard for the presidency. In an obvious allusion to the Democratic organization of the late Tom Pendergast, Dewey said: "It seems particularly appropriate to talk about good government here in Kansas City. You have known how bad a government can be.

"You rose up and threw it out and you know how good a good government can be."

Dewey built his speech around five essentials of good government. He promised to incorporate all of them in his administration if he wins the November election.

The essentials: People who wholeheartedly believe in the American system of freedom, teamwork, integrity, competence, simple courage.

Demos See Trend In Alaska Victory

JUNEAU, Alaska, Oct. 14—(AP)—A democratic victory in the Alaska election led Gov. Ernest Gruening today to predict the territory vote is a barometer for party success in the national election.

The Democrats swept the four teritorial offices and were leading in five of eight races for the territorial Sennate and 17 of 24 for the lower house of the Legislature. The Republicans won a majority of the legislative contests in the 1946 election.

Scores of isolated precincts remained unreported, but the votes of the population centers were all in. The returns included more than 17,000 of the record 20,000 which Territorial Secretary Lew Williams estimated were cast.

In 79 reported precincts out of 226 in the sprawing territory, Congressional Delegate E. L. Bartlett, Democrat, had 13,657 to 3,821 for R. H. Stock, Republican. Bartlett's support is generally recognized as crossing party lines extensively.

Residents of Alaska do not get to vote for President.

Gov. Gruening, who was appointed by the late President Roosevelt, Declared:

"For 30 years Alaska has never failed to indicate the trend nation balloting would take. In no presidential year since the Harding election has a delegate elected in Alaska been of a different party than the President chosen by the nation in November. As Alaska goes, so goes the nation, and I am confident this will remain true in 1948."

Sen. Taft Predicts GOP Will Carry Florida

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Oct. 14—(AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) said here today Flordia will be one of the first states to go Republican "Because we don't have to convert the people down here."

Taft, at a press conference here, noted especially the increasing number of Republicans in the state.

He said Republicans have a chance to carry Flordia, Tennessee, North Carolina and Virginia if they poll 45 per cent of the vote.

"Break" In Polk Case Near, Greek Leaders Indicate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The State Department said today that information from Greek officials on the murder of Radio Correspondent George Polk last May indicates that a major break in the case is near.

Polk's body was found in Salonika Bay after he had disappeared while reportedly bent upon interviewing the Greek rebel leader, George Markos Vafiadis. He was a correspondent for CBS.

An Athens radio broadcast recorded by American government monitors yesterday said that Minister of Public Order Rentis had "let it be understood that the whole matter was now cleared up completely."

"An official statement will be made on Saturday, when photographs of the culprits will be given for publication."

Vet Kills Two Employes Of VA

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 14 (AP)—Two employes of the Veterans Administration were shot to death today by a disgruntled World War II veteran, police reported.

The victims were Milton A. Jacobs, about 45, chairman of the VA Une...ployment Service Rating Board, and Emmett S. Crowe, about 60, a guard.

Deputy Police Commissioner Oscar H. Dabritz said the veteran, Bernard V. Lembitk, 47, had admitted the double slaying in an oral statement.

"I am ordering a charge of first degree murder filed," Dabritz declared.

The deputy commissioner said Lembits told him he had suffered internal injuries while training in the Army Air Force, but had been told at the veterans hospital in Batavia that he was "crackpot."

"He said the VA had been giving him the run-around and he was sick of it," said Dabritz.

U. S. Airport In Norway!

LONDON, Oct. 14—(AP)—A Moscow radio commentator said tonight the United States is "preparing a Norwegian airport near Stavanger for the landing of American Superfortresses."

Phone Settlement Prospects Called Brighter By Union

Deadline Passes; No Indication Of Strike

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—(AP)—A union official said tonight that prospects for settlement of a wage dispute involving 225,000 telephone workers were improving.

"Offers are flying back and forth across the country," a union spokesman said, "and things look brighter than they did a few hours ago."

This was at 8 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Under union contracts with Bell System companies, the deadline for negotiations to end was midnight. There was no indication of a strike, however.

Talks Held At 19 Points

The spokesman said negotiations were going on at 19 different points across the nation. The workers involved in the dispute are spread out over more than 30 states.

The two unions involved in the dispute with Bell System companies are the Communications Workers of America (Ind) and the American Union of Telephone Workers (CIO). The latter was approximately 25,000 long-distance workers.

As the deadline neared, neither union had made a specific wage demand. Bell companies have offered increases ranging up to $6 a week for top skilled jobs. Some lower job classifications would not get any increase.

Strike Starts In Michigan

Unless the companies improve their offer, the unions faced these alternatives: (a) Accepting the offer already made, (b) foregoing any increase and calling a strike, or (c) terminating contracts next spring.

A part of the CWA union's membership struck today against the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, hampering phone service in some of Michigan's principal cities. The union placed pickets around 17 Michigan phone exchanges and the company kept them operating on an emergency basis.

Chinhsien's Fall Hinted

NANKING, Friday, Oct. 15 (AP)—Reports circulated in Nanking today that the big Manchurian base city of Chinhsien had been captured by Chinese Communists.

Minimum Wage In Textile Factories Having Contracts With U. S. Doubled

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—(AP)—The minimum wage rate for textile industry employes working on government contracts was more than doubled today.

Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin boosted the lowest pay such workers can get from 40 to 87 cents an hour.

The new rate becomes effective on government contracts amounting to more than $10,000 signed on or after November 16.

Tobin said that most of the industry, which hires about 800,000 persons, already pays 87 cents an hour or more. He said that was proved July 8 at a hearing here with industry and labor representatives.

He said he based his new rate on evidence produced at that hearing.

The boost may cost the government money because it is currently buying heavily to outfit its expanded armed forces.

Items produced by mills affected by the order include uniforms, tents, parachutes, surgical bandages, bagging, towels, sheets and other articles.

The department's wage-hour division also held a hearing today on a proposal by the Textile Workers' Union of America (CIO) to set a minimum wage for government contract work in the woolen and worsted industry of $1.05 an hour.

No prevailing minium wage has been set by the government for this industry, which hires about 175,000 workers. Tobin has the power to set minimum wages for workers engaged in making or supplying materials for the government.

Such power was granted under the Walsh-Heatley Public Contracts Act, which has been criticized recently by Chairman Hartley (R-NJ), of the House Labor Committee, because he said it is being used to establish "national minimums" in wages.

Truman Calls For "Public" Atom Control

Charges GOP Groups Would Exploit Atom "For Private Profit"

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14 (AP)—President Truman said tonight he favors "public control" of atomic development for the "benefit of all the people," while Thomas E. Dewey "implies" there ought to be "private exploitation."

Eventually, Mr. Truman said, there must be international control of atomic energy. There has been "no change" in that position, he said, but he put Russia on notice that:

"Until the right kind of international control is assured we have no choice but to proceed with the development of atomic weapons."

In an address in the Milwaukee baseball park, the President said Dewey showed "a dangerous lack of understanding" of atomic energy and had "blundered" into the subject.

Dewey spoke on the topic in Phoenix, Ariz., September 23.

"It is clear from the comments of the Republican candidate," Mr. Truman said, "that powerful selfish groups within the Republican Party are determined to exploit the atom for private profit.

Promises To Fight Effort

"I shall fight this effort with all my strength."

Dewey had said atomic secrets and military developments must remain government monopoly at all costs but beyond this security precaution, he said, atomic progress can not continue to be left exclusively under "the dead hand of government."

Mr. Truman got into his atomic speech after his day of campaigning through Southern Minnesota and Wisconsin farming country—and hitting Dewey on other issues—

In his Milwaukee speech, Mr. Truman hit these points:

1. "The fearful power of atomic weapons must be placed beyond the reach of any irresponsible government or any power-mad dictator."

2. This country has stood ready to sacrifice some of its sovereignty so that "the most terrible and devastating weapon ever contrived" does not get out of hand — but there will be no "one-sided sacrifice."

3. The force of fission, in which a pound of uranium releases as much energy as 3,000,000 pounds of burning coal, can not be handled on a "business as usual basis."

Mustn't Be "New Teapot Dome"

4. Atomic energy cannot and must not be "another teapot dome" for private exploitation.

5. Business concerns have had and will continue to have an important part in atomic development; there must be "team work, but we must not put profit making above the national welfare."

The great atomic discovery, the President said, belongs to the people and must be used for the people.

The President said we must continue to follow a national policy of public control as long as safety and the peoples' interest require.

Earlier today, the President laid out plans for a nine-speech big city windup for a campaign he says is one of the most momentous in the country's history.

In addition, Mr. Truman will go on an all-network get-out-the-vote broadcast from his Independence, Mo., home on election eve, November 1. His vice-presidential running mate, Sen. Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, will come in on the program from Paducah, Ky.

CIO "Cold War" Becomes "Hot"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—The CIO's "cold war" between left and right wingers suddenly became "hot" today in a fist fight at CIO headquarters.

The melee occurred at a hearing called by CIO President Philip Murray into charges filed against the Greater New York (city) CIO Council.

Disagreements on procedure for the hearing continuing throughout the day finally broke into an exchange of blows at an afternoon meeting at which Ruth Young, vice president of the New York council, was heard to shout:

"I won't stay in this room with you goons."

The council was charged by a group of New York right-wing union leaders with failing to support the CIO policy of endorsing President Truman. It also was accused of "disruptive and irresponsible action" interfering with negotiations of CIO unions in New York City.

L. S. Buckmaster, president of the CIO rubber workers union and chairman of the committee conducting the hearing, tonight confirmed at a news conference that blows had been struck and an attempt made to oust some people from the hearing.

The fighting began when Sam Burt, a vice president of the New York council, insisted on questioning Pat McGrath, member of the CIO utility workers, who was testifying.

Buckmaster said he "invited the ushers"—members of the CIO headquarters staff—to take Burt out.

Fists flew, with a group of CIO men waiting outside the room joining in.

Judge Holds ITU In Contempt, Bans "Form Contract"

Attempting Illegally To Keep Closed Shop

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 14—(AP)—Federal Judge Luther M. Swygert held the International Typographical Union in contempt of court today and ordered the union not to ask contracts which discriminate against hiring non-union printers.

He ruled the union had evaded his injunction against violating the Taft-Hartley law and was trying illegally to maintain a closed shop.

The judge told the ITU and its top four officers to be in court within 10 days to show that they are following his instructions given out today.

There was no penalty, other than court costs, for contempt.

Counsel for the National Labor Relations Board, which had asked the original injunction, had also asked for the contempt citation and had not requested a penalty.

Form Contract Banned

Today's citation centered on a document sent out by the ITU to its locals.

It was headed "Contract provisions which may be proposed in collective bargaining during pendency of Federal Court decree" and was called a "form contract."

This document was sent out after Judge Swygert had handed down his injunction on March 27. It provides, among other things, that only journeymen printers may be employed.

The decision cites that the "form contract" provides for a test for non-union men to determine whether they are competent, but there is no test for union men nor are they required to be trained or experienced as printers.

The proposed contract is "thus discriminatory in regard to hire on the basis of membership in the union," and is in violation of the Taft-Hartley law, the judge ruled. He ordered the union to tell its members not to use the "form contract" any further.

Union Claims Victory

The union also claimed a victory on some points in today's decision, which it said it would appeal.

Henry Kaiser, an ITU attorney in Washington, pointed out that the court had not granted a request by NLRB counsel that the ITU be ordered to quit making strike benefit payments to printers in Chicago who have been out for 11 months.

Kaiser said the NLRB general counsel had failed in a "shameful attempt to break the Chicago strike." He said he would ask Judge Swygert at a conference Monday in South Bend, Ind., to withhold enforcement of the latest decree until the case could be appealed.

Elderly Couple, On Crutches, Puts Up House No. 16

ATLANTA, Oct. 14 (AP)—Seventy-one-year-old "Grandma" Branan and her 69-year-old husband, both on crutches, are building their 16th house.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Branan admit they didn't intend to build any more houses but "couples at an Army depot nearby were so desperate for a place to live that we decided to build this last garage apartment."

Mrs. Branan has been using crutches since she broke her ankle when logs rolled on it in a truck accident seven years ago. Her husband, who has used crutches for 10 years, is an accomplished stone mason and both are good carpenters.

The Branans built their own large, attractive home and several years ago Mrs. Branan and a negro girl built a five-room house.

Crooner Mobbed, Seriously Hurt

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 14—(AP)—Jack Carroll, 24-year-old crooner who won a nationwide talent show, was mobbed by autograph seekers as he left his New York broadcast tonight and had to be taken to a hospital here with what authorities described as serious internal injuries.

Carroll collapsed in a taxi cab en route to his home in nearby Belleville and was taken to the Columbus Hospital here. Doctors said he was suffering multiple bruises of the chest and groin and was being X-rayed to determine other possible injuries. His condition was listed as serious.

Edwin Royal Lee, associate producer of the Mutual Broadcasting Systems talent jackpot show, said he accompanied Carroll from his broadcast at the Longacre Theatre in New York City when some 300 autograph seekers surrounded him.

Lee said a policeman rescued Carroll and pushed him into a taxicab but that the singer complained of feeling ill and later collapsed as they crossed into New Jersey en route to his home.

Red Labor Chief May Call General Walkout In Italy

Would Back Strike Of State Workers

ROME, Oct. 14 (AP)—Italy's Communist labor chief, Giuseppe Di Vittorio, today threatened the nation with a 7,000,000-man general strike unless the government satisfies demands of striking state workers.

More than 1,000,000 government employes, considered a center or right-of-center white collar class, were called out today for one to nine hours to support their demands for higher wages and other benefits.

Most Romans Stay On Job

In Rome, however, where a large part of the government employes work, all but the Ministry of Posts and Telegraphs reported a majority of their people stayed on the job. The Ministry of Interior said that in the provinces, too, most government offices were well staffed.

Trieste railwaymen quit for two hours to back the Italian workers. Other Free Territory public servants limited themselves to adopting resolutions declaring their "full moral solidarity" with Italian state employes.

It was the first time this white collar group had tried a big-scale strike.

Di Vittorio made his threat at a mass meeting of about 10,000 state employes in Rome.

Could Paralyze Nation

"If the government does not accept the state employes' request all 7,000,000 general confederation workers will strike to support their demands," he said.

The General Confederation of Labor embraces almost every type of public and private worker. A strike of all its members could paralyze the nation.

Italy also faced the possibility of a complete tieup of all public transport except the railroads. The National Federation of Bus, Shortline Railway and Street Car Workers called for a nationwide walkout of indefinite duration beginning Monday. The federation is part of the general confederation.

Gen. Clay Says Firm Western Stand In Berlin Can End Soviet Expansion

BERLIN, Oct. 14—(AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay was reported tonight to have said in a private talk recently that a firm stand by the Western Powers in Berlin can lead to the breakup of Soviet domination in Eastern Europe.

A responsible source close to the American commander in Germany made public a speech in which Clay gave his views on the future of the Berlin crisis.

The talk was delivered privately to delegates of the British Parliamentary Conference who visited Berlin September 28.

Clay disclosed then that the Western Powers tried to buy food from Poland and Czechoslovakia for the besieged German capital, but this was blocked by Russia.

Clay expressed belief lasting peace in Europe could be reached if the Western Powers refused to yield to the Soviet Union.

"Soviet expansion will not only be halted," he said, "it will recede."

He brought up the Soviet blockade of Berlin and said:

"While this was alleged to be a safeguard to the currency, our willingness to buy food from Poland and Czechoslovakia, which we were willing to do, was made impossible. This was a definite indication the blockade was placed into effect as a starvation measure x x x to drive the Allies out of Berlin."

Clay added:

"During the past year we have seen the rise of democratic forces throughout Western Europe—in Italy, France, Finland and Germany x x x. There is a growing consciousness of the value of rights and freedoms of the individual."

Still Hopeful On Eve Of U. N. Council Debate

Bramuglia Thinks Solution To Crisis Will Be Uncovered

PARIS, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Security Council's neutral nations tonight pushed last-minute efforts to uncover a solution to the Berlin crisis acceptable to the East and West.

Council President Juan A. Bramuglia told newsmen he still thinks there is a chance the six neutrals he speaks for will find a solution of their own "just and acceptable" to Russia and the Western Powers.

Western delegates met for hours in secret session on the eve of renewed council debate on Berlin. Authoritative sources said they still were waiting for the neutrals to come through with a plan. The Russians also were reported to be showing keen interest in off-the-floor maneuvering.

The council meets tomorrow at 3 p. m. (9 a. m. EST).

Neutrals To Ask Questions

Bramuglia, Argentine Foreign Minister, admitted the Berlin question was right back where it started in the council with both sides maintaining "ther known positions." But he insisted that with all the cards on the table, the neutrals —Argentina, Belgium, Canada, China, Syria and Columbia—now may come up with an answer.

Informed sources said the neutrals were expected to ask a series of questions at the council meeting in efforts to clear up some points in the Western case. The answers they get may cement a resolution.

The United States, Britain and France have charged Rusia with threatening world peace by the Berlin blockade and want the council to end it. Russia insists there is no blockade and the whole German problem should go before the four-power Council of Foreign Ministers.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, firey Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, is boycotting council discussions but he attends the meetings and is expected to veto any resolution which goes against the Soviet point of view.

Israel Report Sought

While the corridor talks were under way, these developments took place on the floor:

1—The Security Council met on Palestine, and Britain and China demaided that Israel say what is being done to find the assassins of Count Folke Bernadotte. The council adjourned without a vote of setting another session on the subject. Tomorrow the Assembly's 58-nation Political Committee also tackles the Holy Land problem.

2—An Assembly subcommittee on arms slashing started debating how best to tackle a galaxy of suggestions topped by Russia's demand for a one-thrid cut in the arms of the Big Five. Col. W. R. Hodgson, of Australia, was named chairman.

3—Dr. Oscar Lange, of Poland, a former University of Chicago professor, told the Assembly's Economic Committee that American dollars are rebuilding a new imperialist Germany.

Bevin Says USSR Is Imperialistic

LONDON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said today the Russians must "keep on their side of the garden wall" if they can't get along with the rest of the world.

In a speech before the National Union of Manufacturers, Bevin said the British "have ceased to be an imperialist race. We dominate nobody." But Russia, he continued, "is the one country in the word that is still imperialistic—still as imperialistic as Ivan the Terrible, as Frederick the Great, or as Alexander."

His speech was reported by the Press Association and Exchange Telegraph, two British news agencies. A spokesman for the union said foreign correspondents could not be accommodated in the conference hall.

Bevin said the "key to whether we shall have peace for 100 years is in the great problem of the Indian Ocean — the Middle East, Pakistan, India and Ceylon."

Only two days ago Bevin was reported to have emphasized at the current empire conference attended by premiers and officials of the dominions, including Pakistan, India and Ceylon, the dangers of Communist pressure in that area.

"I am not going to worry about our relations with Russia," he said today. "If I cannot get agreement, the issue what has got to be settled is can we live together? What areas do they want to live in? What is the extent of their ambition? Where do they want to go?"

He said he would not "advocate any interference" in Soviet affairs, "but equally, they must not be annoyed if we are upset by their interference, and we defend ourselves."

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—The Israeli government will send "Key personnel" of its police department here for the training in the New York City Police Department Academy. Six men are expected to arrive from Israel within the next month.

Berlin School Children Bring Own Chairs

BERLIN—(AP)—In battered, overcrowded postwar Berlin thousands of school children have to bring their own stools if they want to sit down during classes. It was bad enough last year and, the education ministry announces, it's going to be worse for the new term opening this fall. Whereas 24,000 children pupils were graduated last year, room has to be made for 80,000 beginners in the new term.

Although the Berlin city population is down from pre-war days, the school census is up. Factors are war losses taken from the adult population, especially male, and the growing up of huge crops of war babies, who are still coming of school age.

Last school year there were only 7,000 classrooms for 10,600 Berlin classes. The only solution was to conduct classes in shifts. With increased enrollment in prospect the problem is going to be greater this fall and youngsters are warned in advance to acquire a stool if they don't want to stand.

About one-third of Berlin's six hundred school buildings were destroyed during the war. Of the remaining 415, twenty-nine were converted into hospitals and 43 were requisitioned as German government buildings or for use of the occupation powers. Under a two-year plan adopted by the occupying powers in 1946, all the 29 school buildings converted to hospitals were to be given back to the education ministry by this summer. But such the chronic shortage of hospi space that only fourteen could restored.

QUALITY is part of every page in Rosenbaum's

100-Year Diary

What does a building have to have to stand up throughout the years and still look just as strong and just as handsome as when it saw the first light of day? A good foundation, top materials, sound construction—in short, quality.

This 1850 building—now the Cumberland Free Public Library—has that quality. In 98 years, it has weathered—and weathered well against all kinds of wear and tear. Yet today, almost a century later—it still stands—strong, sturdy, and able to serve a book-loving community.

When it comes to quality, there's not much difference between a first-rate building and a first-rate store. Take Rosenbaum's, for instance. What's kept our store on top of the heap for 100 years? What's made it grow so rapidly? What's brought a steady stream of customers from three states straight to Rosenbaum's generation after generation?

Quality—that's what. Famous-brand merchandise. Nationally-advertised merchandise. In short, the kind of merchandise people want most.

We prize our century-old reputation for quality here at Rosenbaum's. We don't take any chances with it, either. Everything we sell—whether it's a big thing like a broadloom rug or a little thing like a spool of thread—has to be tops. Because that's the kind of merchandise you want most—top-quality merchandise.

Pres. Truman Prisoner Of His Very Own Mistakes

"Unless we prevail against Communism," Earl Warren told a New Brunswick, New Jersey, audience during his campaign swing through the east, "this world will never be a free world for free men again." To the California governor this is the top issue, and the Administration has made it so: "It is the prisoner of its own mistakes."

Roosevelt admitted the Communists into Government posts, resented and derided the efforts of a House committee to expose and expel them. Truman refuses to provide Congress with the facts in his possession, and calls its inquiry "a red herring."

Meanwhile, the country is treated to an extraordinary spectacle, a procession of men in positions of trust—in Hollywood, in the unions, in the schools, in and out of public office—who refuse to answer a direct question, "Are you a Communist?" lest it "incriminate" them. As to all these men, the country has had no trouble making up its mind.

In a way it can be grateful to the President for his biggest tactical mistake, which was calling Congress into extra session soon after the Democrats adjourned in Philadelphia, apparently to show it up. What he did was to provide a platform for Congress committees to pursue their inquiries in public, and a sounding board to relay their findings to every corner of the land.

The formula for an immediate remedy as Gov. Warren sees it: "When Governor Dewey becomes President, he simply will keep the Communists out of Government office by never letting them in." Too simple a procedure, of course, but it would help a lot.

Only three per cent of American people understand what they read, according to a survey. And they probably do not believe all of it.

Baseball Has Moved Out; Football Holds Spotlight

Now that baseball has relinquished the center of the sports stage, football will receive the undivided attention of followers of both of these national pastimes, but fans will not soon forget the closeness of the American and National League races and the tight struggle for the world championship.

Cleveland and Boston gave the American people the best entertainment of the year—and even did it twice. The first feat of each was to take the measure of teams which seemed to have almost a monopoly of the pennant contests. The second feat was to grapple for the World Championship in half a dozen games that provided every thrill which should animate a Baseball Classic—seesaw scores, airtight pitching, practically perfect fielding, and, in one game, a Saturnalia of Slugging.

It would have been a popular victory, whichever way it turned out, for Cleveland had not won a championship since 1920, Boston none since 1914, and the American public wanted to see things sort of evened up. Cleveland's triumph is, especially welcome, because the Indians have color beyond any other team, as highlighted in youthful Lou Boudreau, their all-resourceful player-manager. However, people rejoiced when the Braves took the grin off Indian faces by hammering their pitchers all over the lot, and they thrilled again on Monday when the Braves staged an eighth-inning rally that threatened the Indian lead and brought in the seemingly unbeatable Bearden to stay their onrush.

Sidelights of the series will provide plenty of conversational material in weeks to come for the Hot Stove League; the double defeat of Feller, the most brilliant pitcher of the time (which was also the lot of Walter Johnson, another top-notcher); the flawless pitching of Spahn, Boston's Arkansas Traveler; the game-winning single by Doby, the Negro Indian (a paradox); the feat of Satchel Paige, Cleveland's veteran Negro pitcher, in bringing to a close the fatal seventh inning of Sunday; perhaps, above all, the pitching of the southpaws, as dramatized by Bearden, who won both the pennant and the World Championship for the Indians.

Reluctantly, and with many a backward glance, Americans turn their attention to football, with an eye on world affairs and the presidential race.

Fat men suffer from emotional anxiety, according to medical experts. A few lean ones worry about the price of food, also.

Unbalanced Town Meeting Brings Boos From Audience

Radio impresarios who arrange panel discussions of controversial issues have a duty to the public to see that both sides are given a fair hearing. This means that conflicting views should be aired by the best spokesmen available so that the pro and con may be fairly balanced. On last week's "Town Meeting of the Air" that unwritten law was violated.

The topic was the most crucial question of the day: "How Is Peace With Russia Possible?" Arthur Bliss Lane, an experienced American diplomatist, set forth what might be called the State Department view of how to deal with Soviet Russia. But he was heavily outweighed by the three other speakers. Norman Thomas condemned Russo-Communist foreign policy, yet, as Socialist Party candidate for President, he could not admit that lasting peace is possible under the present American economic system.

Max Lerner, though not a Communist, was so bitterly critical of the Truman Doctrine and of the American policy in China as to leave the impression that the United States is at least as responsible as Russia for the East-West conflict. He insisted that we have not made a proper effort to negotiate with Russia.

The fourth speaker was O. John Rogge, prominent Henry Wallace supporter and campaign worker, who naturally assailed U. S. foreign policy as "Fascist" and said we can't get along with Russia because we have abandoned the policies of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Some of the Rogge statements struck even the New York audience as so outrageous that he was roundly booed. Moderator George V. Denny then rebuked the audience for not tolerating free speech. But the audience, and the vaster audience on the air, had a just ground for complaint. The net impression created by this "Town Meeting" was that Mr. Lane's was a voice crying in a leftist wilderness. Considering the choice of speakers for this singularly unbalanced panel it could hardly have been otherwise.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Antacids For Ulcers

For more than 2,000 years man has known that a relationship exists between peptic ulcers and hyperacidity. One of the earliest references to the subject was made by Celsus. He lived long before Christ, and advised patients suffering with this malady to avoid acid and acrid substances.

Dr. Van Dellen

Furthermore, there is evidence also that milk and aluminum silicate were advocated centuries ago in treating the disturbance.

These historical facts are interesting because they show that alkalizing drugs were as popular in the past as they are today. We have made some headway but even our modern remedies, including the very latest, do little more than neutralize gastric acidity and pepsin. On the other hand, they differ by being able to do the job better and with less inconvenience to the patient.

This fact is rarely appreciated by the victim who always is in hope that the latest remedy will effect a cure which others failed to do. Little does he realize that the product is just another neutralizer, working perhaps, on a different principle. After all, these substances do not act directly on the ulcer but merely encourage nature to heal by promoting a more favorable environment within the stomach. Consequently, those who fail to obtain relief will do well by taking stock of their living and dietary habits.

It is well known that most ulcer patients are high strung, overenergetic, and react poorly to adversity. Many have found through years of experience that they are comfortable so long as everything is going smoothly. Yet few take the trouble to rearrange their business and other activities to suit their physicial condition. Instead, they prefer medicine and hope that they can "have their cake and eat it, too."

During the early part of the 20th century baking soda, calcium carbonate, bismuth of carbonate, and magnesium oxide were popular antacids. Such chemicals were excellent neutralizers but often caused intestinal irritation, diarrhea, constipation, or belching. In an attempt to overcome these drawbacks, the phosphates of magnesium and calcium were introduced, and in 1930 the aluminum preparations and magnesium trisilicate came into vogue. Since then, mucin has come and gone, and enterogastrone is bidding for recognition. The purpose of these drugs is to reduce acid and pepsin secretion. The same effect is obtained from the surgical procedure — vagtomy — in which the nerves to the stomach are severed.

One of the latest antacids for the management of peptic ulcer is a synthetic resin known as "amberlite IR IV." This substance has acid absorbing qualities which are said to be as effective as the older remedies. On the other hand, it has the advantage of not being absorbed from the digestive tract and is not irritating to the wall of the stomach and intestine. Furthermore, it is effective in small dosage and is inexpensive and tasteless. Another new comer is being made from our modern detergents but we will hear more about this product later.

BREAST CANCER

A. O. writes: Can cancer in the breast be detected without the finding of a lump?

Reply

No, unless you refer to conditions which are occasionally forerunners of cancer. One of these is Paget's disease, a pecurial eczemalike affection of the skin of the nipple and surrounding area.

ALWAYS THIRSTY

G. R. writes: What is the cause of an unquenchable thirst?

Reply

A glandular disturbance is most common, especially diabetes insipidus and diabetes mellitus.

UNCOMMON

C. L. writes. Can blindness result from encephalitis?

Reply

Yes, but this is a rare complication of the disease. Abnormal pupils and nystagmus are more frequent sequels.

Good show, old girl.

Yes, Dinah Shore jolly well rocks them at the Palladium in London. And just before her . . . Jack Benny, Mickey Rooney and Danny Kaye played there and had the monocles rolling in the aisles.

The British influence is obvious. Mickey Rooney's next picture will be "Andy Hardy Chases Heathcliffe."

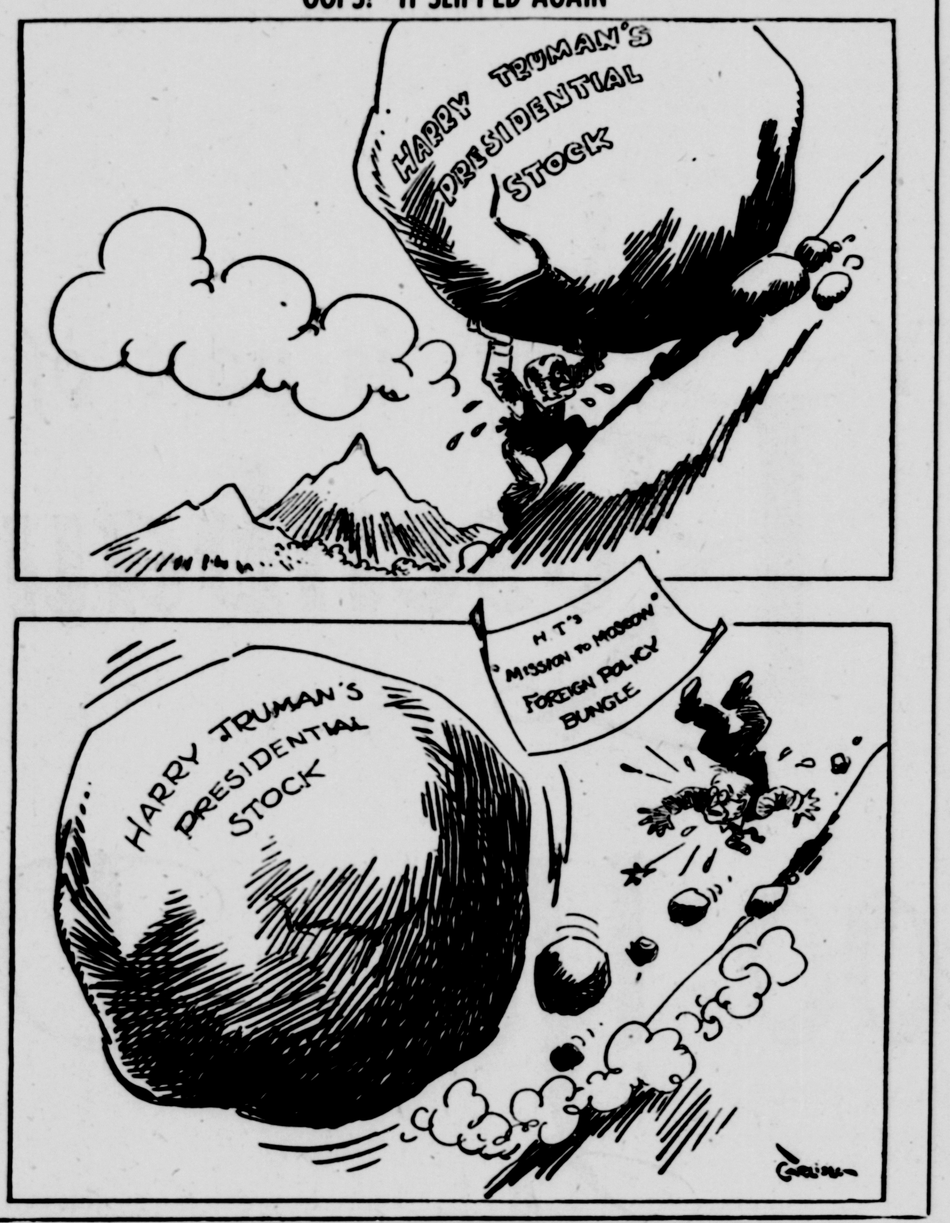

And since Jack Benny saw Buckingham Palace, there's been a new ritual at his house. They call it "The Changing Of the Guard at Benny's Vault."

The reason for stars making tours is that these days they rate an actor by his international popularity. Yes sir, the star's automatically washed up if one day goes by and he doesn't get 12 goat skins full of mail from the Belgium Congo.

Just yesterday I heard one actor bragging about how he killed them at a business mens' luncheon in down town Tanganyika.

My studio wants me to be more popular among the Eskimo trade. In my next picture I spend 3 reels flapping my fins and they've got me on a steady diet of nothing but blubber.

Democrats Won't Win Senatorship In Kentucky; More Communists In Dewey's And Warren's States Than Any Other; Truman's Inconsistency

By DREW PEARSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 14.—Thanks to the most popular man in Kentucky, Senator Alben Barkley, the Bluegrass State will go for Truman in November. It will not elect a Democratic Senator—for two reasons.

1. The Republican Senator, John Cooper, has had a good Senatorial record and deserves to be re-elected.

2. The Democratic candidate, frequently unsober Congressman Virgil Chapman, has such a miserable record that many Democrats are getting fed up with him. Thereby hangs some interesting inside history.

Shortly after Congressman Chapman won out in the primaries, a group of labor leaders approached Democratic Governor Earle Clements in Louisville and told him that if he would get Chapman to support the Democratic platform they would give him labor's endorsement.

Gov. Clements is largely responsible for getting Chapman the Senatorial nomination, but when he asked his protege to support the Democratic platform, Virgil refused.

When President Truman's train came through Kentucky, however, it was a different story. Chapman hung on the President's coattails from beginning to end. And all the way across the state, Truman and Gov. Clements begged Chapman to say he would support the Democratic platform. Each time he refused.

"I will not give up my position as an independent statesman," Chapple kept repeating.

"Won't you promise to support Truman?" pleaded Gov. Clements.

"Only when I agree with him," replied the would-be Senator, who for once appeared to be cold sober.

"Will you promise to support Barkley?" countered Clements.

"Not even Barkley will ride on Virgil Chapman's coattails," replied the Congressman.

"All right," shot back the enraged Clements, "If you think you are such a damned statesman just paddle your own canoe from here on out."

Since then Governor Clements has ignored Chapman's campaign and has concentrated on Truman and Barkley.

Keeping-the-Record-Straight Department

In yesterday's column it was suggested that not all the issues in this campaign are getting a fair airing before the public. Following this up, here are some facts the public deserves to know about:

Twisted Republican Facts: Gov. Dewey plus other GOP leaders have heaped criticism on the Democrats for failing to clean the Communists out of Government. This is an important issue.

However, on March 16, 1947, J. Edgar Hoover testified that the two states with the largest number of Communists were New York with 30,000 and California with 8,553, giving them 52 per cent of the nation's card-carrying Communists.

The Governors of these two states are now running for President and Vice President of the United States.

In the fall of 1946, Attorney General Tom Clark placed the California Labor School at San Francisco on the "subversive list" as a Communist-front organization. Simultaneously the Veterans Administration in Washington requested the State of California to remove this school from its approved list for veterans.

The State and not the Federal Government is given the power of certifying these schools which can receive veterans benefits. And though the Veterans Administration in 1946 requested California to uncertify the labor school, it was not removed from the list until June 30, 1948.

In the interim, the U. S. Government was forced to pay thousands of dollars to a school which was teaching Communism—due to failure of the State of California to act.

Twisted Democratic Facts—Attacking monopoly in Louisville, the President stated: "Three steel companies own 59 per cent of all the ingot capacity of the United States."

One of these companies is the giant U. S. Steel Corporation. And in Louisville Mr. Truman ignored the fact that his own Administration helped increase U. S. Steel's part-monopoly when it sold the Government owned steel plant at Geneva, Utah, for 20 cents on the dollar. The Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division strongly opposed this sale to U. S. Steel on the ground that it increased monopoly. However, the Anti-Trust Division was overruled by higher-ups.

Another of the three companies referred to by President Truman at Louisville is Republic Steel. But he also forgot that his own Administration increased Republic's monopoly trend which he so vigorously criticized.

The Truman Administration has given Republic Steel for a song steel facilities which cost the Government $155,000,000. The Government's South Chicago plant, costing $92,000,000, was sold to Republic for $27,000,000, while the Government allowed Republic to lease a wartime blast furnace at Gadsden, Ala., and then close it down for more than a year—despite the tragic need for pig iron.

Finally, when War Assets Administrator Jesse Larson got tired of Republic's favored position and sold the Government's Cleveland blast furnace to Henry Kaiser, higher-ups played into Republic's hand by shilly-shallying on the deal for weeks, refusing to O. K. the sale to Kaiser, an independent.

These were things Mr. Truman overlooked when he made his speech at Louisville.

Note—U. S. Steel's pipeline into the Truman Cabinet is likable, bumbling Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder. Republic Steel's pipeline is ex-White House Jester George Allen. It has long been the boast of Republic Steel president Charley White that he could get the White House on the phone day or night.

Supreme Court Action Is What Roosevelt Inveighed Against

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. — While all the political campaigners are telling the country how terrible the Democrats or Republicans happen to be, no one ventures to remind the country that it is witnessing in the behavior of the present Supreme Court exactly what the late President Roosevelt inveighed against in 1937.

Mr. Roosevelt contended that the old court was "legislating," that it was usurping the function of Congress by writing laws instead of interpreting them. Then the hand of fate gave Mr. Roosevelt a chance to appoint the majority of a new court.

Now the Supreme Court, despite the urgent pleas of unions and employers who joined hands in desiring a uniform interpretation, has ruled that the determination of what constitutes a regular rate of pay and an overtime rate of pay were not to be decided by management and union labor in their contracts but by the courts.

The issue arose over premium and bonus pay usually paid for night work or after certain hours or on holidays. Congress intended to maintain the custom in industry, which is that, in order to figure overtime after 40 hours, the regular rate of pay for regular hours of work is used. The Supreme Court, however, totalled up all the compensation paid a worker within the 40-hour week, including bonuses and premium pay for night work or irregular shifts, and then divided by 40 to get what the court believed should be the regular rate per hour. Obviously this made overtime rates of time-and-a-half not only larger for some employees than others in the same plant but made it virtually impossible for unions to write into their contracts any uniform method of computing wage rates where premium pay or unusual shifts were involved.

Type of Responsibility

It was precisely this sort of irresponsibility which led the present majority on the Supreme Coourt to say, in the "portal to portal" fiasco, that a worker who walked a few yards inside a plant before he started the day's work was really beginning his 40-hour period and that overtime would be computed on all time in excess of such a work week. Congress had to pass a special law to override this legislation written brazenly by the Supreme Court, and thus a legalistic scheme to extort billions of dollars in back pay from employers on technical grounds was squelched.

The Supreme Court has further muddied the waters on the matter of wage payments by refusing to review a lower court decision that dealt with merit-pay increases, though it must be said in extenuation that the Court now has agreed to take for review another case which is much clearer as to the issues as to the issues on management's right to grant merit increases.

In the first case, it was ruled that an employer was guilty of an unfair labor practice under the Wagner law because he refused to bargain on the matter of merit-pay increases called for in the contract with a union. The union contends that it was not asking to control how merit increases were given but simply wanted information as to how the merit payments had been determined on and just what increases had been made.

Management Right and Wrong

Insofar as this was a point for discussion in a collective-bargaining agreement, the employer probably was in the wrong in declining to discuss it, though his theory doubtless was that merit increases are a matter of management judgment or discretion. In any event, the new case which has gone to the Supreme Court for review differs in that it raises the point concerning the right of an employer to make voluntary increases for any reason when he has already been in disagreement with a union presumably after a contract has expired or a deadlock has arisen in the negotiations. At such a stage labor is free to strike and management is free to use any argument or inducement to bring about a peaceful agreement provided the employer does not interfere with the right of the union to continue to bargain or of workers to take concerted action.

It will be interesting to see how the Supreme Court views the problem of voluntary increases now that the new labor-management law has equalized the rights of management and unions. Certainly under the old Wagner law, an employer not only had to consider all his workers as still being employees even while on strike, but could not offer them any concessions except through the union, though the members were out on strike or were in a state of disagreement over contract terms.

Truman's Charges Gave Forth Hollow Sound: Proved Poison

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

If, as many political analysts believe, President Truman had the election won, hands down, last January, what has happened to make him an apparently sure loser?

It is my guess that Mr. Truman has lost more votes running after Wallace, than Wallace will get. Except for foreign policy questions, you could put the difference between Truman and Wallace in a hummingbird's eye. Both are now running on the C.I.O. platform.

The people admire Mr. Truman's plucky fight. If he had stayed a simple, middle-of-the-road American, he would have given Dewey a terrific battle. But he has cheapened himself and his great office by making statements plain folks don't think he really believes. That is poison today. Things are too serious. "To thine own self be true," and the election would follow.

Ringing the changes on the "gluttons of Wall Street" gives forth a hollow sound from a man, half of whose Cabinet, and official family, have Wall Street connections. To campaign for civil rights in Northern cities and say nothing on the subject in Texas puts a big question mark at the end of a campaign tour.

In 1904, when Theodore Roosevelt was campaigning for President, he spoke in Denver, Colorado. Bryan had carried Colorado twice for 16 to 1. T. R. was told to lay off the money question. But at the packed auditorium that night, the President's first words were: "I am for the gold standard in New York"—a pause to let that sink in—"and I am for the gold standard in Colorado"! The crowd lifted the roof off in the homage the American people always pay to courage. Roosevelt carried the state, although the "gold telegram" of his opponent, Alton B. Parker, made his task easier.

I will always remember what Speaker of the House, Joseph W. Byrnes of Tennessee—"Uncle Joe"—once told me. He said: "Your folks will disagree with your vote on this and that. But they'll forgive you generally, so long as they think you are honest. When they begin to question that, your votes won't save you. They are none too sure, themselves, on debatable questions. But they want to be sure of you."

I toss that thought into today's political arena. It is worth noting by young men campaigning for the first time. The average politician is more timid than the law requires.

●—●—●

The violent attack on Mr. Truman by John L. Lewis will do the Republicans no good. Truman's popularity curve shot up when he went to the mat with a man who claims the right to blockade the entire nation in order to win a private row with the owners of the coal mines. For Lewis to remind us of that fact could only help Truman today if the President had not played both sides of the street by demanding the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law which he invoked against Lewis in the most popular White House fight in many a long day.

Truman will defeat Truman. He has been weighed in the balance and found wanting in the priceless ingredient.

Who will pick up the pieces of the Democratic Party — Barkley, Wallace, or Thurmond? Or will a new labor party emerge, headed by Walter Reuther, the leader of the United Automobile Workers?

Dewey, with four tickets in the field, will carry the electoral college, but will almost certainly get a majority of the total vote. That puts him on a precarious perch.

The next Congressional election is only 750 days away!

These Days

Out Of Their Strength

IT IS a curious response to the challenges of nearly every era that when man is in the greatest despair, when the hopelessness of fear is most upon him, when others wring their souls in the agony of lost causes, the Jew starts afresh to build.

So it is that Israel comes into existence in a year when nations are being killed off and states are being reduced from sovereignty to satellites. And so it is with Brandeis University, which has just been established in Waltham, Mass.

I attended the ceremonies of the founding of Brandeis University and the inauguration of its first president, Abram Leon Sachar. This is the first wholly secular university founded by Jews in this country to be available for faculty and students without regard to race, color or creed. It follows the great American tradition of the founding of universities by religious sects, as Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Princeton, Notre Dame, Fordham and many others were so established. It differs from some in that no theological school is attached to it, but a broad humanism inevitably prevails in an atmosphere of a continuing tradition.

At a time when universities are worried about their endowments and when some even advocate turning over to Washington politicians the financing and therefore the ultimate control of institutions of higher learning, these Jewish merchants and businessmen of Boston dare to project a new university, purchase a lovely property for a campus, renovate old buildings, erect new ones, gather a faculty and in about a week the first freshman classes will be at work.

It is an amazing example of the resilience of the human spirit, of courage, of faith, of belief in the future of mankind. They do not give up.

More than 200 American and foreign universities and learned societies sent delegates to the ceremonies and, of course, there was all the pageantry of academic procession and the color of gowns and hoods. But these really mean very little. What was important on this occasion was the contrast with the despair of Paris, the hopelessness of Berlin, the fear of war.

After all, nothing that was done on this particular occasion will bear mature fruit until a generation has passed through its halls.

It will be four years before the first class will be graduated. Under present plans, no graduate or technical school will come into existence at Brandeis sooner than five years from now. The young men and women who now enter will not know for a decade whether Brandeis University really gave them something or wasted their time.

And so, while the politicians and soldiers are talking of the defeat and even the destruction of civilization, these men are planting seeds for a new forest and learning.

They ignore the ephemeral headlines for the permanence of human growth. They do not worry about being bombed out of existence, for they know that man always builds anew.

Louis D. Brandeis represents a complex figure in both American and Jewish life. Born in Louisville, Ky., he studied at Harvard and settled in Boston to practice law. For many years of his life he had been wholly disassociated from the Jews, and at one stage it was even believed that he had left them for other pastures. He became interested in the Zionist Movement after he had made a great success as a lawyer and had reached mature years. He then became undoubtedly the leading figure among the Jews of America and perhaps of the world. Once a lawyer for corporations, he later devoted himself to liberal causes. He eventually became a Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States and achieved there a leadership which continues in spirit even after his death.

And so they named the first Jewish university in the United States after him as a monument to his memory and as an inspiration to those Jews who, while profoundly American, have not forgotten their origin. Brandeis blended in his personality a conscious Americanism and a conscious Judaism. His personal traditions were Jeffersonian; his public life was in the mood of the prophets of Israel. For such a man, this university must prove a fitting monument.

On Getting Around

Each of us lives in a world of his own making. It can be a little world or a big one. But to make it a big world we must become acquainted, get around, see things, and keep exploring. Every new discovery in knowledge or contact, enlarges one's world that much.

The automobile has proved to be one of the greatest of all blessings to mankind, because it has introduced people to the highway, to their far-off neighbors, and to the splendors and beauties of nature. Today, more people move around in a single day, when up to almost a decade ago it took months or years to accomplish.

On getting around we lose many of our fallacies, get new viewpoints, learn more about human nature, and have revealed to us our own ignorance. I shall never forget the thrills that went through me as I first viewed the majestic West—through the Canadian Rockies, into the Northwest and along the Redwood highway to the Mexican border. What an Empire that is! How all my preconceived ideas were swept aside! My world took on new territory.

To appreciate this free western world, you have to travel to those countries where such freedom is unknown. Through the mirror of your own mind you catch a glimpse of many another world.

A candidate for office takes the "Stump" that he may contact all those whom he hopes to serve. Only by getting around can he hope to know and be known. As we move around, we lose much of our conceit and false pride, grow more liberal in our thinking and learn tolerance.

Reading about people is good, but to meet them is better. We measure our own abilities largely by the abilities of others. We are inspired by comparisons. The obvious errors of others are signal signs to us. We discover these as we move around, observe, and take notes, though these notes be but mental ones.

He who has gone around much has learned much and has much to tell. From him we learn and emulate. Thus may we all expand, grow in mental and moral strength; thus happily fulfilling our human destiny.

The American Cancer Society distributed more than 10 million pieces of educational literature during 1947.

Among the major causes of death in America, cancer is one of two which has not declined in the last half century.

Doves and pigeons have no gallbladder, for storing bile, though they produce it in their livers.

This is a story about an anomaly, and an anomaly, Junior, is a "deviation from the rule"—like a waiter who won't take tips, or a girl who has no use for silver blue mink.

Billy Rose

The other day I heard about an anomaly in Brooklyn that sounded like column material, and Flatbush and dropped in to see State Senator Louis B. Heller. Heller, in case you don't know, is the author of New York's Anti-Desecration Bill which makes it possible for the police to prosecute the bilge-brains who chalk dirty names on synagogues and churches.

As I entered his law office, the Senator was watering a small potted plant on his desk.

"I didn't know you went in for horticulture," I said.

"It's a shamrock," said the Senator, "and it was given to me as a fee."

"That's anomaly enough for any man's column," I said. "How about giving me the plot behind the plant, petal by petal?"

"Well," Heller began, "twelve years ago a Brooklyn lawyer named Raymond J. Riley was accused by a woman client or forging her signature and unlawfully cashing a check for $235.28. Riley pleaded that the signature was genuine and that the woman was trying to beat him out of a fee, but he was found guilty and given a suspended sentence. This automatically barred him from practicing law.

"His funds exhausted by the case, the only way Riley could make himself heard was to take a job as waiter in a restaurant near the courthouse, serving the same judges and lawyers he'd previously hobnobbed with. But after a while his pleadings began to annoy the customers, and when they complained, he was fired.

"Two years ago, shabby, rundown and on his last legs, he came to my office and begged me to help him. There was something about him that I liked, and so I agreed to look into his case.

"Well, it wasn't an easy job. The woman who had accused him of forgery refused to change her story, and, after ten years, the witnesses were difficult to contact and almost impossible to check on. I was about to give his case to the cat when I noticed a reference in the court record to a handwriting expert named Elbridge W. Stein, who had been scheduled to testify for the State but was never called to the witness stand. This puzzled me.

"I made an appointment to see Stein and took Riley along, and, sure enough, my client identified him as a man he had seen conferring with the Assistant District Attorney on the day of the trial. Finally the whole story came out. Stein had informed the Assistant D.A.—a chap named Ed Kelly—that the signature on the check was unquestionably the woman's, but the prosecutor, anxious to get a conviction, had hustled him out of a side entrance.

"I tried to get in touch with Kelly, but I was informed that he had gone soft in the head and died in a sanitarium.

●—●—●

"After that, it was smooth sailing. Suppression of evidence by a State officer was all we needed to make our point, and Judge Carmine J. Marasco handed down a decision reversing Riley's conviction. This happened the afternoon before St. Patrick's Day—just in time for my client to march in the parade—and in honor of the occasion, a Riley presented a Heller with a shamrock."

"Nice story," I said, "but what was your honest-Injun reason for doing all that work for Riley?"

"I'll tell you," said Heller. "A long time ago, when I was a kid, I broke my nose playing football in Prospect Park. The referee put me in a cab and took me to a hospital, and when I was patched up, he brought me home and explained things to my mother. Naturally, I was grateful and promised him that if I was ever in a position to square things, I would."

"The referee's name, I take it, was Raymond J. Riley."

The Senator nodded.

"Good trick ending," I said.

"Use it if you like," said Heller, "but I think I ought to tell you it isn't true. You see, when the reporters asked me why I defended Riley, I was afraid the truth would sound corny, and so I told them the first story that popped into my head. The truth is that Riley impressed me as a square guy who had gotten a bad deal, and I wanted to help him out—but I don't suppose you'd care to use that when you write the story. The trick finish undoubtedly has a lot more punch than the facts."

"I'm not so sure," I said. "When an Irishman, unjustly convicted by another Irishman, is defended by a Jewish lawyer and cleared by an Italian judge on St. Patrick's Day, and when the Irishman presents the Jew with a shamrock for a fee—well, it's at least a photo-finish between truth and fiction for first place."

"It'll be interesting to see which one you use," said the Senator as he poured a little more water into the flower pot.

LaVale 4-H Girls Conduct Unique Nursery School

Two seniors at Allegany High School, both members of the LaVale Senior 4-H Girls' Club, hold the distinction of conducting a summer nursery school believed to have been the only 4-H project of its kind in the state, according to Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent.

The girls, both 17 years old, are Elizabeth Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Long, Woodlawn Avenue, LaVale, and Mary Margaret Lear, daughter of Franklin Lear, LaVale. Mrs. Long is the club leader.

Miss Lear's aunt, Mrs. John A. Oliver, donated the use of a barn at her home, and the girls converted the second floor of the building into a temporary nursery school.

Orange crates tackled on the wall served as bookcases, and one part of the room was used as play space, while the remainder served as a "school room."

Toys included a miniature kitchen cabinet, two stoves, a vanity table, doll bed and chest, three rocking chairs and other equipment.

The girls operated the nursery school every weekday morning from 9 until noon through the month of July, and 13 neighborhood children, ranging in age from two to five, were "registered."

Activities included work on coloring and drawing projects, a "tea party" each morning at which milk and crackers or cookies were served, outdoor games, a free play period, and singing and story telling hours.

The name of each child was printed on a poster, and each received a star opposite his name if his behavior was good. Otherwise, a check mark was placed after the name, and the children "worked hard" to win a star the following day, the girls reported.

An alarm clock served as the school bell. It was set to ring at 9 o'clock when school convened, and at the hours when it was time to put away toys and when school closed at noon.

The girls set a fee of 50 cents per child for the daily three-hour period, with a special rate of 70 cents daily for two children from one family.

They used part of the money realized from the project to finance their trip to College Park in August to attend 4-H Club Week, when they gave a rport on their nursery school.

LaVale children enrolled at the school included twin sisters, Connie and Phyllis Costa. Others were Gretchen and George Lawrence, Peggy and "Butch" Roudabush, Jimmy Hart, Richard Phoenix, Pamela Angle, Lynn Bonner, David Fulk, Elaine Solomon and Johnny Birch.

The girls are continuing their "baby-sitting" activities on a smaller scale this fall in individual homes. They haven't yet decided whether to reopen their unique nursery school next summer.

When the youngsters come calling for "tricks or treats" this Hallowe'en, pass a tray of gingerbread men decorated with orange-tinted frosting. Gingerbread goodies boast a rich molasses flavor which make them popular teatime snacks.

Hoffman Reports 'Red Tide' Turned

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Paul C. Hoffman, Economic Co-operation Administrator, said tonight "the Marshall Plan has not only stopped the march of Communism but has turned the tide in the other direction." He added that Western Europe was working together "as never before in history."

Hoffman, home from Europe today, made the assertion in an address before the New York Board of Trade, which honored him and President Dwight D. Eisenhower, of Columbia University, for distinguished service.

If Western European countries remain "free nations" and stay united with America, he said, "we can, I believe, be sure that no aggressor will march against us."

Steel production in European recovery program countries, Hoffman said, was running six per cent ahead of schedule this year and 27 per cent more than that in 1947.

He said there were notable gains in French and Italian bread rations, German fats and oils rationing, operations of French refineries and Italian railways, and European production of fertilizer.

Hoffman went to Europe last weekend, but had no comment on his trip.

Warren Calls For Big U. S. Merchant Marine

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 14 (AP) — Gov. Earl Warren, coming into strike crippled Puget Sound shipping area, called tonight for a United States Merchant Marine able to compete for its share of the world's commerce.

Of the major Pacific Coast ports, only Tacoma was still open to comm rce in the West Coast CIO maritime tieup now in its 43rd day.

Speaking at a rally in Tacoma's National Guard Armory, the GOP vice-presidential candidate ignored the strike situation in his prepared address, but asserted a growing and competitive Merchant Marine demanded new yard and dock construction and "maintenance of a large working force of skilled workers".

Reds Denied French Visas

PARIS, Oct. 14—(AP)—Visas have been refused Russian delegates to a labor convention here because they asked to stay a month for a five-day meeting, a French Interior Ministry spokesman said today.

The convention involved was that of the Communist-dominated General Labor Federation (CGT), which is leading a current strike wave in France.

DiDomenico Preparing Wage And Hour Bill

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—State Labor Commissioner Joseph F. Didomenico said today he is preparing a wage and hour bill covering both men and women to replace two measures he recently withdrew from the Legislative Council.

Didomenico said the proposed bill will not set any maximum working hours. But it will provide for payment of time and one-half for more than eight hours a day or 40 hours a week.

The bill will be offered in place of two bills submitted and then withdrawn from the Legislative Council by the Labor Commissioner. The two bills distinguished between men and women.

State Dept. Had "Red Cell" In '30s

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Secret testimony that two Communist underground rings were operating simultaneously in the State Department in the 1930s was disclosed by the House Committee on Un-American Activities today.

Reps. Mundt (R-SD) and Nixon (R-Calif), committee members, said they received the testimony August 27 in a closed-door session from Whittaker Chambers.

Chambers, an avowed ex-Communist, now a Time magazine editor, said the purpose of the Red underground was to infilterate the government everywhere possible.

Chambers testified he talked with Alger Hiss, a former State Department official, about several persons who might be drawn into the "Red Cell" which, Chambers said, was already operating in the department. He said Hiss, now president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, was a member of the cell.

Among the persons mentioned, he said, was Noel Field, then in the department's Western European division.

Teen-Aged White Girls, Negroes In Sex Orgies

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14—(AP)—A high police official said today that a group involved in extended sexual orgies among teen-aged white girls and negro men has been uncovered.

The police executive, who declined use of his name at this point in the investigation, said that as many as 50 persons might be implicated. Some warrants already have been issued, he added.

Vice squad probers, he said, have learned from witnesses:

Some of the girls already questioned admitted smoking marijuana and drinking wine and beer at parties with the men, all of whom are negroes. Admissions of sexual perversions also were obtained.

Participants said the acts took place in homes, parked automobiles and trucks.

Fishing Thief Gets $45 Line

Police were looking for a fisherman last night, or at least they supposed it was a fisherman, who looted the automobile of H. B. Bond, Johnstown, Pa., while it was parked on North Mechanic Street Tuesday.

Bond reported last night that his car was broken into and fishing equipment valued at $45 was taken. Fishing streams would be a likely place to look for the thief, authorities agreed.

Newscasts Called Radio Obligation

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP) — The radio news committee of the National Association of Broadcasters, in a report today, said "news is the industry's number one public service obligation."

The statement prefaces a series of recommendations to NAB members in the handling of news.

"More people tune for news than for any other purpose," the committee said. "It commands the eager interest of all ages, all classes.

"News broadcasts have come to be a 'must' in 37,623,000 radio homes with 120,000,000 listeners. Since each news program must be acceptable to all groups and all ages, broadcasters are obligated to exercise meticulous care in the handling of all matters concerned with those programs."

The committee urged that stations not now gathering their own local news set up staffs to do so. It recommended that the news director be responsible directly to management.

The committee urged that news sources be identified, with emphasis on giving credit on commentaries and analyses furnished by news wires or other sources.

The group further suggested "that the type of sponsorship of radio news programs be determined with the same judgment of good taste and seriousness which governs the preparation and presentation of the news itself."

"Rose" Is Denied Bail

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14—(AP)—Federal Judge Louise E. Goodman denied bail today to Iva Toguri (Tokyo Rose) D'Aquino—But made an unusual concession.

He directed United States Marshall George Price to provide a "suitable place" for the confinement of the California-born Japanese, who is accused of treason for her wartime broadcasts from Japan.

Rita Johnson, Memory Blank, Leaves Hospital

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14 (INS)—Film Star Rita Johnson, the victim of an almost fatal head injury last Labor Day, left the hospital today and went into hiding.

Amid an air of secrecy, she departed St. Vincent's for further convalescence in a secluded spot. With her were her mother, a trained nurse and a spiritual adviser, Father Thomas McCarthy, editor of "The Tidings," a Catholic weekly.

Her physician, Dr. Lee Siegel, disclosed that while the star is in good condition "in a convalescent sense," her memory continues to be a blank.

Baker Is Hero At Warren, Pa.

WARREN, Pa., Oct. 14 (AP)—Baker Lowell McCann's quick action today probably saved this town of 14,891 inhabitants from disaster.

At 2 a. m. McCann noticed the gas flames in his bread ovens had flickered out. Ten minutes later gas again hissed through the pipes — unlighted.

McCann reasoned many unattended gas appliances in the slumbering city might be pouring unburnt gas into homes and apartments. He didn't wait.

He called Fire Chief Charles Albaugh. Fire trucks, police cars and ambulances sped through the darkened streets, sirens screaming. A sound truck blared, "Check your gas. Check your gas."

Albaugh said the desperate cacophony which woke the population saved many lives. He said his men found about 200 gas-filled homes. Albaugh personally awakened "at least 50" groggy citizens.

No one was overcome.

"I expected to find 50 or more dead," Albaugh declared. "McCann's prompt report undoubtedly saved many from gas asphyxiation," he said.

The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company serving the area blamed the gas interruption on an air pocket in the lines. Cause of the air pocket was undetermined. The company began an investigation.

Germans In Africa May Aid Malan

JOHANNESBURG—(AP)—Germans and ex-internees may give Dr. D. F. Malan and his new Nationalist government the few extra legislative votes he needs to fix him firmly in office and control South Africa's destiny for the next five years. The last general election gave the Nationalists a frail four majority over Field Marshall Smuts's United Party in the House of Assembly, and political observers here forecast the early fall of the Malan regime. But they reckoned without South West Africa.

This former German colony, given by the old League of Nations under mandate to South Africa after World War I, has hitherto been governed by its own elected Legislative Council, but the mandate gives the South African government the right to administer the territory as an integral part of the Union. As late as last February Field Marshall Smuts was planning to give S.W.A. direct representation in both South African Houses of Parliament.

Since coming into power, Dr. Malan has quickly jumped this claim. He has summoned the Administrator of S.W.A., Col. P. I. Hoogenhout, to Pretoria and ordered him to get busy and call a conference of both political parties in the territory and form an agreed plan for representation at once. Dr. Malan is reported as favoring five or six seats for S.W.A. in the Union's House of Assembly. The political set-up in S.W.A. is much the same as in South Africa, but the United Party have always held power in the local legislature, and on the present voters' roll the Nationalists cannot expect more than two out of a possible six seats in the Union Parliament.

It is here that the Germans come in. Before the last war about 5,000 Germans living in S.W.A. were automatically naturalised under a special Act, but in 1942 this was cancelled, they lost the vote and a number were interned. Leading South African newspapers are now crediting Dr. Malan with the intention of restoring these 5,000 Germans to full citizenship and winning their votes for the Nationalists. If this were to happen, the United Party would be almost wiped out in S.W.A. and the Nationalists would be sitting pretty with a comfortable majority in the Union Parliament. Already Dr. Malan has suspended indefinitely the deportation of about 240 Nazis booked by the Smuts government for return to Germany and has ordered stoppage of all future sales of enemy property in S.W.A.

What would autumn be without the favorite two-crust apple pie, with the flaky top crust putting a lid on the juicy goodness inside? The final test of a good pie is the crust. When making it, add water sparingly, sprinkling it lightly over the flour-shortening mixture. Enough water has been added if the ingredients just hold together when pressed with the fingers. Toss dough on a lightly floured board or pastry cloth and roll lightly from center. Lift dough a few times while rolling; this helps to prevent sticking.

Dog Dogs His Steps

BALTIMORE (AP) — The professional pride of William A. O'Connor was somewhat ruffled. The 246-pound mail carrier admitted a stray dog was doing more to stay him from his appointed rounds than all the snow, rain, heat and gloom of night he had ever encountered.

Last July O'Connor had his first run-in with the dog—he calls it Brownie. The veteran of 21 years on one mail route escaped after a tug-o'-war in which he gained an insight into Brownie's nature and Brownie gained a piece of O'Connor's trouser cuff. "Since then he has run me up on the steps at least once a week," says O'Connor. "He means business. He's showing fangs and snarling when he comes after me."

Brownie has defied the efforts of both the police and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to end his sorties. Once an SPCA gentleman had him bottled up under some steps. But Brownie mustered his daring, charged from beneath the steps and put the enemy to flight. Lacking further orthodox protection, O'Connor now carries his own means of self-defense—stones—in his mailbag. They increase his burden, of course, but O'Connor says, "I'm getting fed up."

Greek Farm Plans Pushed

ATHENS — (AP) — Rapid progress has been made in most of the agricultural rehabilitation projects planned by the American Mission for aid to Greece, and now under way. Agricultural officials say the program is "bound to brighten materially the farm outlook for Greece."

Greece has never been able to produce enough food for the needs of its people. Greek farming has been primitive, and land has been "used and abused for many centuries." The $25,000,000 agricultural program of the American Mission was designed to reduce to a minimum the gap between the food produced and the food consumed in Greece.

Part of the funds were used the past year to procure 40,000 tons of fertilizer, and 16,000 tons of sulphur and copper sulphate for spraying vineyards and orchards. In addition, 8,000 tons of other pesticides and insecticides were imported. To improve the quality of Greek crops, the mission brought in 2,750 tons of certified seed what and other seeds.

To modernize Greek farming large quantities of machinery and equipment, ranging from tractors to spare parts, were brought here. Greek production of vitally needed equipment is also being expended with Mission help.

Vienna Guards Watch Cars

VIENNA—(AP)—American Military Police have recently strengthened their nightly patrols to combat the wave of car thefts plaguing American owners in Vienna. Six extra patrols, touring the American residential districts of Vienna, have brought the thefts to a virtual halt. The patrols check every American automobile not locked in a garage on an average of every 30 minutes from midnight until 6:00 A. M.

The Provost Marshall's office reported knowledge of an organized ring of car thieves which went into action last April. According to the Provost Marshall, a new American automobile brought 70,000 Austrian schillings ($7,000) when delivered to an assembly point on the Danube River. From the assembly point the autos allegedly are taken by river barge to Budapest.

Refugees Employable

Geneva, Switzerland — (AP) — Of 625,000 refugees receiving care and maintenance from the International Refugee Organization about 54 per cent are employable, according to a recent survey by the IRO. The remainder were children under 16 years of age, persons over 65 years of age, mothers of young children, individuals in transit for repatriation or resettlement, and a small number of chronically ill or disabled persons.

The IRO said about one-third of the 226,690 men who are employable are skilled workers, one-fourth are agricultural workers and one-eighth are professional men and managerial workers. Among the 113,788 employable women, 19 per cent are classified as skilled workers, 17.7 per cent are in service occupations and 16.3 are agricultural workers.

Doves are not as peaceful as they are supposed to be. They quarrel among themselves, though generally not among other birds and creatures.

Catholic Poles On Pilgrimages

CZESTOCHOWA, Poland (AP) — Tens of thousands of devout Polish Catholic men, women and children are tramping scores of miles to the shrine of the "Black Virgin" in Czestochowa. Groups of 100 to 300 Poles are walking the highways and byways leading to Czestochowa. Often they are led by a priest carrying a cross. Many of them walk barefooted, because many of them don't have enough money for a pair of shoes.

Czestochowa is the "Lourdes of Poland." Many of the crippled and inform have claimed they were cured after praying on "Jasna Gora" (The Shining Hill) before the jewel-studded portrait of the "Black Virgin." The picture of the Virgin wasn't always black. But it's centuries old and the story is told that the facial features of the Virgin turned black during the years because the masterpiece was made of cypress.

Berlin Gathers Fuel For Winter Crisis

BERLIN (AP) — In mid-summer heat thousands of Germans here are scouring Berlin's suburban forests for trunks and twigs to haul home for firewood. Last winter many Germans burned pieces of their furniture to keep warm in bomb-damaged lodgings.

The next winter, if German Communist threats hold good and unless the Russians relent, will be for Berliners the "winter of the blockade" just as this is the "summer of the blockade." Even in mid-summer inability to fly in sufficient coal has forced drastic cuts of electricity and crippling of western Berlin's industry and commerce.

The Berlin crisis may be settled by four-power negotiation and the blockade lifted before winter comes. But the Communist press now hurls daily jibes at western Berliners: "Can the American fliers feed you through storm and sleet? Will you sit in cold, dark homes and your children in unheated schools this winter? Think it over and force the city government to take the right (i.e., Communist-dictated) course."

Faced with this uncertainty Berliners go wood-gathering.

Just Between Us

To Repay Hospitality Have One Big Party For All Hosts

By NANCY MOTTRAM

(Q) "Dear Nancy: During the summer I was invited to several of my friend's cottages, and went to some parties given by other girls. I'd like to return their courtesy by inviting them to a party of my own, but there's one hitch. Some of these girls don't know each other, and I can't see giving two parties, one for each crowd. What do you think I should do about this?"

Nancy Mottram

(A) There's no reason why you shouldn't invite them all to one big affair. They could meet each other, have a wonderful time, and your obligations would be taken care of very nicely. The simplest method would be a buffet supper, and you might have just the girls over for that and perhaps later invite the boys over for an evening complete with records and refreshments.

•—•—•

(Q) "Dear Nancy: When I came here from my summer vacation my friend and I called everything off. We both want it that way, but there's one thing that has been bothering me. We wrote letters all during the summer and I'd like mine back. We're cool to each other, but we still speak, and I want to know how I should go about asking for those notes."

(A) The best way is to offer to exchange letters. Next time you see him, stop him and ask if he will return your letters and you'll look up his to give back. You've heard it before, but it can bear repeating. You'll have fewer regrets and fewer worries when a romance does dissolve if you keep your correspondence friendly and pleasant, but don't give in to the temptation to write things that you'd be embarrassed to have anyone else read.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: A former friend of mine is going away to college this fall, and so am I. Due to a fight we had several months ago, we haven't been on good terms, but I've come to the conclusion that the whole thing was stupid. I hate to leave with hard feelings still between us. It's been so long now that I don't know how to go about apologizing. What do you think I should do?

(A) Now is as good a time as any, and it's a fine idea to have things cleared up before you go. It won't be easy for either of you after all this time, but if you call her or see her, explain your feelings. She probably would like to get it straightened out, too, and if you can settle down for a long talk, your differences can be fixed up. Then you won't have that on your mind. Get in touch with her and have a heart-to-heart chat. She'll know your sincere and she'll reply in kind.

She Figured A Reward

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — Passing through Butte, Mrs. J. McConnell, a tourist from Calgary, Alberta, lost her purse, phoned an ad to Butte newspapers, offering an unspecified reward and said she would return in a few days.

Next morning, a woman came to the classified advertising department, gave the handbag to a clerk, said "Here's the lost Canadian purse" and started to leave.

The clerk asked her name and told her a reward was being offered but the finder refused to give her name and stomped out after declaring, "I've already taken my reward. There's a handbook in there showing $1,130 so I've got my reward.

When Mrs. McConnell claimed the purse she said that the woman's self-fixed reward was $40—all the cash the purse contained.

Isles Fined On Weapons Charge

William Isles, 519 Pearre Avenue, was fined $25 yesterday in Police Court for carrying a concealed weapon after he admitted displaying a .45 caliber revolver at the home of a friend.

Isles, who said he removed the clip, testified he had the gun in his possession to show an acquaintance. The defendant remarked that he thought it was legal to carry an unloaded gun, even though he had cartridges in his pocket.

Police arested the man early yesterday on the complaint of two witnesses.

Two other men listed as Raymond Gray, 506 Linden Street, and Andrew Jackson, 506 Necessity Street, are being held in City Jail "for investigation." They were taken into custody yesterday morning.

John O. Maiden, head of the psychology department of Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., has reported that Allen Macy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Macy, 207 Fayette Street, topped all scorers in a recent psychology test at the school.

Macy, a 1948 graduate of Allegany High School, had a score of 159. John W. Swan, also a member of the same graduating class of Allegany, placed second with 156. The highest possible rating is 200, with 103 as the national average, according to Maiden.

Macy was a member of the a capella choir and the boys' glee club while at Allegany. He was also active in dramatic circles.

Authorities said the fraudulent Check was cashed by Vincent Firlie, affiliated with the business, on August 27 and drawn on the Union National Bank, Pittsburgh. He was committed to County Jail in default.

FRONT LABEL Symbol of Quality... This label is your guide to quality—to selecting the brand you want.

BACK LABEL Proof of Quality... This label is required by the U.S. Government.. It tells you the age and amount of base whiskies in the blend.

Today especially, with the shortage of aged whiskies, you should know the age and amount of straight whiskies in the blend you buy. That's why we urge you to look at the back label as well as the front label—before you choose a whiskey. It's good to know that Three Feathers—backed by America's largest reserves of fine old whiskies—gives you the same generous quantities of five, six, and seven-year-old whiskies, blended with choice grain neutral spirits.

*RARE BLENDED WHISKEY 86 Proof. The straight whiskies in this product are five years or more old. 35% straight whiskey, 65% grain neutral spirits. 12% whiskey 5 years old. 20% whiskey 6 years old. 3% whiskey 7 years old. Three Feathers Distributors, Inc., New York, N. Y.

Quality Assurance

You are assured of Three Feathers' continued rare good taste because the whiskies in the Three Feathers blend are drawn from America's largest reserves of fully aged, fully matured quality whiskies.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

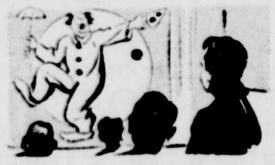

Should you argue with a superstitious person?

Answer: You might as well save your breath. For superstition expresses emotions which are older than our thinking powers and of which we may be entirely unconscious, so that arguments have no effect upon them. Convince a man with a guilty conscience, for example, that black cats are harmless and he'll only be that much more careful about walking under ladders, since he'll go on dreading the "bad luck" he feels is coming to him. On the other hand, belief in magic goes back to our childish idea that our parents had limitless powers.

Can excessive "economizing" be neurotic?

Answer: Obviously, in the case of people who won't spend enough to live in comfort although they have fortunes hidden away. But it is no less so with the ordinary person who is "penny wise and pound foolish." When you have done something which you are ashamed of, or which you fear may have painful consequences, one way to get back your peace of mind is to "undo" your blunder by an act of just the opposite kind, even one that has no real importance. Having been extravagant about a hat, milady walks home to save bus fare.

Do we depend too much upon others entertaining us?

ANSWER: I believe so. With all respect to "show business" and so-called "spectator sports," I think most of us should find more ways of entertaining ourselves instead of depending upon hired entertainers. It's using your faculties and talents that keeps you alive and growing, and you no more sharpen your wits by laughing at Jack Benny's jokes than you exercise your muscles by watching a horse race. A game of croquet you play yourself does more to keep you young and active than shouting your head off at a ball game.

Cancer is not confined to the aged. Only half of those who died of this disease last year were over 65 years of age.

The word stevedore comes from the Spanish word meaning packer.

Eggplant, Rice Medley Makes A Tasty Dish

Whether a producing garden is right outside your door or not, the markets reflect that vegetable garden are producing their heads off right now. It's that lapping-over time when table variety is easily obtained.

Eggplant, tomatoes, green pepper, with a few other items from the kitchen shelves make a wonderful mixture and when given backbone by incorporating these ingredients with rice—ah, then it's a husky dish that makes the meal!

White Fluffy Rice

Put one cup rice, one teaspoon salt and two cups of cold water in a two-quart saucepan and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until it boils vigorously. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more, during which time the water will be absorbed, making the rice deliciously tender.

Remove the lid, permit the rice to steam dry to the desired consistency and the grains will be separate and fluffy. Never stir rice, but lift rice gently with a fork when testing its consistency.

Eggplant Medley

One eggplant; two or three ripe tomatoes, depending on size of both tomatoes and eggplant; one and one-half cups cooked rice; one-half green pepper, chopped; two tablespoons butter or margarine; two tablespoons minced onion; one-half cup cheese, grated; salt; pepper, to taste; dry bread crumbs; butter or margarine for dotting.

Peel and cut up eggplant into finger-size pieces. Keep submerged under cold, salted water until ready to cook. Cook eggplant pulp in boiling salted water (to cover) to which has been added a teaspoon of vinegar. Boil gently until tender. Drain.

In a skillet, melt butter or margarine and add chopped onion and green pepper. Cook rather slowly until onion and green pepper are slightly sauteed. Add to these two the peeled and coarsely cut up tomatoes. Stir to cook slightly. Mix tomato mixture with drained, semi-mashed, cooked eggplant, rice and cheese. Season with salt and pepper.

Put in a greased baking dish that can go to the table. Top with crumbs and dot with butter or margarine. Place casserole in a 350-degree over until all flavors are well blended, the whole dish is hot and the top a golden brown. This takes about 30 minutes.

Alas, alack! Nature doesn't produce just one size of anything. How many this will serve is left to the eggplant you take home with you. Any self-respecting eggplant, however, should serve four people, easily, and maybe more.

Meat May Be Cooked With Moisture By Two Methods

One of the first basic cooking lessons the new homemaker should learn is that large cuts of meat are cooked by two methods, either with or without, added moister. This is both because of the difference in tenderness of some of the cuts and for variety's sake. Of these two, the difference in tenderness is more important, because there are actually only a few cuts which are cooked by both methods to give variety.

The two methods for cooking large cuts of meat are roasting and cooking with moister. Both are equally easy to follow. Roasting is for large tender cuts of beef, veal, fresh and smoked pork, and lamb, such as: beef standing ribs and rump; fresh or smoked pork-shoulders, loins and hams; lamb legs and shoulders; and meat loaves. The meat for loaves may be from less tender meat cuts. However, grinding makes the meat tender so that it may be cooked as a roast.

To roast meat successfully place the meat cut with its fattest side up on a rack in an open, shallow roasting pan. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) for all meats but fresh pork which is roasted at 350 degrees F.) until tender. The approximate time can be computed by any of the very good charts showing the number of minutes of cooking time to be allowed per pound.

Cooking with moister (a small or a large amount), on the other hand, is the method for less tender cuts, such as beef pot-roast (arm and blade bone from the chuck, heel of round or rump); beef shanks; veal knuckles; pork hocks; heart; corned beef; and tender cuts like smoked ham which are cooked in liquid for variety.

Pot-roasts are browned before being cooked and only a small amount is added. The meat is then covered and cooked slowly. The other cuts are cooked completely covered with liquid. These cuts are usually cooked in a heavy utensil with a tight cover. The water, vegetable juice or other liquidis added, the utensil is then covered and the meat simmered until tender. The approximate time for cooking can be computed with the aid of standard charts on the subject.

Meat-Stretching Baked Rice Jumbo

Fall weather puts heavy duty hours on the casserole contingent in the kitchen. With school activities and cooler weather everyone is hungry enough to eat a "bear". And it would be hard to find another combination that would be so good, so easy and filling as this one, and a recipe that calls for such a little of precious meat. If you have it once, you'll have it often.

Baked Jumbo

One cup uncooked rice; one quart of canned tomatoes; one large onion or two small ones; sliced thin or chopped; one-fourth pound salt pork and one-half pound beef, ground together; one and one-half teaspoon salt; one-half teaspoon pepper; one-half teaspoon thyme; one teaspoon sugar.

Mix all of the ingredients together and pour into a large greased casserole dish — at least a two-quart size. Cover and bake in a 300 degree oven for two hours or until the rice is tender.

The meat flavor is cooked all the way through the dish, the rice is tender, and the seasoning's delicious! It will serve eight, at least, or rather will make eight servings without scraping the bottom of the supply.

RED CABBAGE AND APPLE MACEDOINE . . . It is tasty

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Red cabbage is always a thrifty vegetable to use in the fall to give variety to meals. There are many delicious ways of serving the crisp, colorful red heads.

The use of an acid food such as sour apples, vinegar or lemon juice helps to keep the color of the cabbage red—and these partners, along with sugar, give it fine flavor.

A popular seasoning for red cabbage is caraway. But celery seed, chopped celery and onions are excellent accompaniments.

I found red cabbage made an attractive addition to a platter of green and red "antipasto" that I served recently as a first course. On the platter went paper-thin slices of the very good Italian salami called "Genoese," but if you can't find this in your neighborhood you may use other cold cuts. Then there were sliced cucumbers. Strips of green pepper went on the platter along with green olives, and finally the red cabbage slaw in lettuce cups.

To prepare the slaw we shredded the red cabbage in thin long shreds and marianated it in French dressing —¼ cup of dressing to 2 cups of the cabbage. Extra salt, pepper and sugar was added to taste.

If you want a delightful accompaniment for economical sliced luncheon meats, for lunch or supper, try this recipe (pictured here).

RED CABBAGE AND APPLE MACEDOINE

Ingredients: 1 small head red cabbage, 2 sour apples, 1 small onion, ¼ cup butter or fortified margarine, 1 teaspoon caraway seed, salt.

Method: Shred cabbage; slice the apples, with or without peeling, depending on preference; peel and slice the onion. Melt the margarine or butter in a covered pan. Add the cabbage, apples, and onion and enough water to form steam—about ¼ cup. Add the caraway seed and salt to taste. Cover and steam until tender about ten to fifteen minutes.

Here is a recipe for a combination of this sort that goes well with left-over sliced meat. Because it's a hearty casserole dish you needn't add too much else to the menu. I served it recently with leftover ham, and it is also good with pork chops.

RED CABBAGE AND APPLE CASSEROLE

Ingredients: 3 cups finely ground red cabbage (about ½ medium-sized head), ½ cup finely ground sweet green pepper (1 large), 1 teaspoon salt, freshly ground pepper, ¼ cup butter or margarine, 3 medium-sized apples (about 1 pound), 3 tablespoons lemon juice (½ large lemon), ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg, ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar, ¾ cup coarsely crushed cracker crumbs. Method: Mix the red cabbage and green pepper together; put in a medium-sized baking dish that has a tightly fitting cover. Dot with 1 tablespoon of the butter or margarine. Peel apples, cut in eights, remove cores and slice extremely thin.2 (There will be about 3 cups.) Arrange apples over top of cabbage and butter or margarine and sprinkle with the lemon juice, nutmeg and brown sugar. Melt the remaining 3 tablespoons of butter or margarine in a skillet over low heat and add the cracker crumbs; stir until well coated. Sprinkle crumbs over top of casserole, cover tightly, and place in moderate (375 F.) oven until tender-crisp, about 25 to 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue baking until crumbs are lightly browned, about 10 or 15 minutes. 6 to 8 servings.

Cherry Pudding

1½ cups sifted cake flour
1 cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
1 No. 2 can pitted, sour red cherries, drained
1½ cups cherry juice and water
2 tablespoons shortening, melted

Grease shallow baking pan approximately 10x6x2 inches. Sift together flour, ½ cup of the sugar, baking powder and ½ teaspoon of the salt. Add milk and melted shortening; stir until blended. Spread evenly in baking pan. Arrange cherries evenly over top of batter. Combine water and cherry juice, remaining ½ cup of sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt; bring to a boil. Pour over cherries. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 45 minutes. Serve warm. Yield: eight servings.

Gold Salvage Rumors Denied

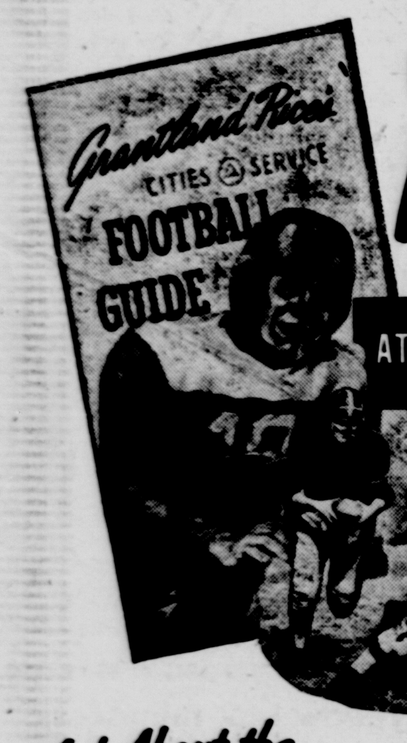

DARWIN — (AP) — A pearl shell diver, working in the mark of Darwin harbor, stumbled against a steel wreck. Word flew back to Darwin, and talk in the clubs started to buzz. Is it the Peary? Wonder if its gold is still there?

The Peary was a four funnel United States destroyer. She came to Darwin at the end of 1941 from Manila. On February 19, 1942, she went under, in a blaze of glory, to Japanese bombs. Her guns were still firing as she sank in the eastern arm of Darwin Harbor. Rumors flew around that she carried $3,240,000 worth of gold. They were neither confirmed nor denied by Americans.

For a few days after the recent report the idea of finding the Peary was given impetus. Now everybody is cooling off again. Skipper of the [illegible] from which the diver operated didn't even bother to mark the spot. He doubts whether the wreck is the Peary.

(In Melbourne an Australian naval headquarters spokesman said advise from Darwin was that the wreck was believed to be of a ship named Zealandia).

Language Division Annoys Belgians

BRUSSELS — (AP) — Five million Flemings are slowly squeezing three and a half million French-speaking Walloons into a minority position in the most densely populated little country of Europe today. Keen Flemish nationalists predict that the day may come when Belgians no longer speak French at all.

The language barrier which splits tiny Belgium in two has puzzled professors for generations. No difficult mountain barriers have kept the people in each part from knowing their neighbors, yet the division runs right across the country like a kind of miniature Mason-Dixon line. Northward of this line, the people speak Flemish, which might be described as a local adaptation of the Dutch their northern neighbors speak. South of this line, the main language is French. In a small area on the eastern frontier, German provides a third official language in the Belgian cantons of Eupen and Malmedy.

Brussels is a kind of no man's land of mixed speech. Although French sill predominates, an increasing number of Flemish workers moving into the city is making its presence felt. All street signs and public notices appear in both tongues. Speeches in parliament may be delivered in either language and most politicians speak both, but the fact that each insists upon using his own language on almost every conceivable occasion shows the importance attached to nationalist sentiment.

Generally the Flemings occupy mainly agricultural districts and raise larger families to work the land. The French-speaking Walloons, partly concentrated in the towns, seem to show the townsman's preference for a smaller family. Their birth-rate falls in an almost exact proportion as the Flemish birth-rate rises.

Hospital Transfer Plan Must Await Improvements

Miss Mary T. Howie, superintendent of Miners Hospital, Frostburg, has reported that transfer of responsibility for the hospital from state to local control must await extensive improvements to the building.

The transfer of title to a non-profit organization which would assume the role of the state was suggested in a report by the Hospital Survey Committee of the State Planning Commission.

The institution—Maryland's only state-owned general hospital except for Maryland General—has been seeking the addition of a maternity wing for the past two years.

Miss Howie says there is little interest among local groups in the committee's proposal. She doubts if there will be any until the wing and other improvements—a new $19,000 kitchen among them—are added.

"The hospital is badly in need of new construction," she said. "I doubt if the state will be able to transfer title until they are made."

For Marylanders west of Cumberland, Miners Hospital comprises the nearest, and in many cases the only haven for those in need of hospital care, she pointed out.

Constructed as a 35-bed hospital in 1913 to care for persons injured in mine accidents, it cares for 56 patients. Overflow must be sent 11 miles away to the Allegany and Memorial hospitals here, which have space problems of their own.

Miners Hospital has a staff of seven physicians and 30 nurses. State-wide attention has been focused on its needs through the request for a 25-bed, $331,700 maternity wing.

Maternity cases constitute one of the chief problems at the hospital, Miss Howie said. Space limitations forbid the keeping of mother or child for more than five days, although some should be hospitalized for a week she added.

Fewer accidents in mines and more calls for surgery have broadened the institution's scope until it handles "a little bit of everything," including a busy outpatient service.

The maternity wing plan was first advanced two years ago this month after a conference between Walter N. Kirkman, recently retired Director of Budget and procurement and Frostburg civic groups.

Pointing to the need for a hospital in the Frostburg area, Miss Howie said:

"We take them as they come—and they did from miles around."

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrasment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

Baering Down On The News

It's the squeaky-axle style of music that gets little grease. His brand of progress consists of skidding when you should be standing still.

Yet the lunatic fringe will always go for a pitch-man wrapping up a ten-dollar gold piece with a five-cent piece of soap.

Hank feeds on discontent. His one big mistake was not knowing the solid south enjoys being discontented.

Gallup Poll

Truman Running Ahead In Three Of The Eleven Western States

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., October 12—In the Mountain and Pacific Coast regions, where both candidates have campaigned extensively, eight of the eleven states today give Governor Thomas E. Dewey a popular vote advantage.

The Republican nominee is now leading in Colorado, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, California, Washington and Oregon. In this region President Truman is ahead in Arizona, Montana and New Mexico.

Presidential standings in 35 states now have been reported in the Institute's first national, state-by-state survey. The final thirteen, all in the South where the traditional Democratic stronghold has been impaired by the Dixiecrat rebellion, will be reported this Friday.

The box score for the 35 states analyzed so far shows the following picture:

Dewey leads in 29 states.
Truman leads in 5 states.
Truman and Dewey are tied in one state.

In the case of a number of these states the lead which one candidate today has over another is so slight that later figures might reverse the current standings.

The present state-by-state survey is the first of a series to be presented by the Institute prior to Election Day. Field interviewers in the 48 states will continue to poll representative voters on their presidential choices up to three or four days before Election Day. Meanwhile, any changes in the Institute's figures for individual states will be reported as they are found.

Outside the South, the Pacific Coast section in 1936, 1940 and 1944 gave the Democratic candidate the highest percentage of the popular vote of any section in the country. The Mountain region was close behind in third place.

In 1944 Roosevelt captured nine of the eleven states in the combined regions, compared with the three in which President Truman today is ahead. Four years ago Roosevelt lost only Colorado and Wyoming in these regions.

As of the moment, this is the picture of political sentiment in the Mountain and Pacific states:

"If the presidential election were being held TODAY, how would you vote,—for Truman, for Dewey, or for Wallace?"

	Dewey	Truman	Wallace	Undec.
Mountain
Arizona	43%	47%	5%	5%
Colorado	51	41	1	7
Idaho	46	42	5	7
Montana	40	47	7	6
Nevada	47	44	3	6
N. Mexico	40	49	2	9
Utah	45	42	3	10
Wyoming	50	41	3	6
Pacific
California	48	41	6	5
Oregon	47	38	5	10
Wash.	45	43	3	9

Political observers will scan this list not merely to see which presidential candidate leads in individual states. They will also look for clues as to the effect the presidential tickets are having on senate races which have an important bearing on which party will control the Senate.

Senatorial elections will be held in six of the eleven Western states reviewed today. Democratic seats are involved in Colorado, Montana and New Mexico, while Republican senators are up for reelection in Wyoming, Idaho and Oregon.

Popularity of a national ticket often influences the chances of a part's state and local candidates, chiefly because of the tendency on the part of many voters not to "split" their ballots on Election Day.

The lead which presidential candidates hold in today's standings provides some evidence of the strength which the national tickets will lend to state candidates. It should be kept in mind, however, that Institute figures deal with presidential candidates only and do not constitute a prediction of senatorial races in any state.

Previous surveys in the Institute's first national state roundup covered the New England, Middle Atlantic, East Central and West Central sections. The scoreboard for the 24 states in those areas follow:

	Dewey	Truman	Wallace	Undec.
New England
Maine	56%	34%	3%	7%
New Hamp.	54	36	3	7
Vermont	60	33	1	6
Mass.	50	43	2	5
Conn.	43	39	4	14
R. Island	37	48	3	12
Mid-Atlantic
New York	47%	34%	11%	8%
N. Jersey	50	38	3	9
Penn.	50	41	3	6
Delaware	49	36	1	14
Maryland	47	44	4	5
W. Virginia	49	43	2	6
East North Central
Illinois	49%	40%	*	11%
Michigan	52	41	4	3
Indiana	52	40	2	6
Ohio	51	42	3	4
West North Central
Iowa	53%	38%	2%	7%
Kansas	59	34	2	5
Minnesota	45	45	2	5
Missouri	40	51	3	6
Nebraska	53	39	—	8
N. Dakota	50	34	6	10
S. Dakota	54	38	1	7
Wisconsin	51	40	3	6

*Institute interviews in Illinois did not ask respondents whether they would vote for Mr. Wallace, since they will not have a chance to do so in November.

Current evidence indicates that a larger proportion of voters than normal have not yet made up their minds. In some states it is possible that this group might determine which candidate carries the state. Such changes will be reflected in future Institute surveys

Greek Musicians Know Their Guns

KOZANE (AP)—"Our job is playing melodies with whatever instruments we have. Violins or tommy guns, there is no difference. Both are for Greece," That's what the violinist in the band of Kozane's 15th division says.

The saxophonist says the band's real talent is not music but the dexterity with which the bandplayers can swap musical instruments for guns in emergencies. The band of Kozane's 15th division, now fighting somewhere southwest of Nestorion in the Grammos mountain, is one of six bands entertaining soldiers on the front lines.

The bands bring good music to music lovers that boost the morale of the man in combat, military officials say. Five young men of the 15th division's band troup with a military convoy several times a week to reach the army's advance positions. During their last trip to the front, a truck loaded with their musical instruments struck a mine. Simultaneously their convoy was attacked with machinegun fire from a guerrilla ambush.

The violinist described it as a "strange and dissonant concert. We fired our tommy guns on enemy positions and mourned for our dismembered musical instruments." when the band is at Kozane, it entertains evenings at the soldier's home and Sunday morning at the army hospital.

Child Undergoes Second Of Three Rare Operations

CHICAGO, Oct.14 — (AP) —Pamela Lamphere, two, today underwent the second of three operations to correct a rare bladder condition. A dispute over whether to operate nearly led to the divorce of her parents.

The surgery was termed a success by Dr. Karl Meyer, medical director of Cook County institutions.

The little girl spent two hours on the operating table undergoing surgery to corret a malformation at birth that placed her bladder outside her body.

She was calm as she was wheeled into the operating room after saying goodby to her mother and father, Fred and Irene Lamphere. They waited in an anteroom of county hospital while the operation was being performed.

First Two Operations Similar

Today's surgery was similar to the first operation performer several weeks ago. Surgeons transferred the right ureter, a duct which carries urine from the kidney to the bladder, from the bledder to the large bowel. The first operation transferred the left ureter.

The third operation which will not be attempted for three months will remove the child's non-functional bladder.

The child will be able to leave the hospital in about two weeks, Dr. Meyers said. She will convalesce at home and prepare for the final operation.

Pamela, a cheerfful little girl, came through the first operation remarkably well. Within a few days she was playing with her dolls and displaying no trace of the serious treatment she had undergone.

Dr. Meyer said the first two operations, transferring the ducts, are the most serious of the three.

The Lampheres became estranged over the question of whether to operate. The father favored the surgery on learning the child could not live long with her existing condition. The mother opposed it, saying she preferred to have the child for the few years she was sure Pamela would live rather than risk an operation that might prove fatal.

Lamphere took the dilemma to the Supreme Court, asking that an operation be ordered. Judge Walter J. O'Malley solicited the best medical opinion. The consensus was that the child could survive surgery as other children had.

Mrs.Lamphere accepted the verdict and agreed to permit the operations. They later became reconciled.

Television Discovers The Pigeon, Puts Peculiar Breeds On Display

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP) — Science marches on! Television has discovered the pigeon.

The National Broadcasting Company, no doubt in response to the demand of numerous public spirited birds, last night put pigeons on television — one of the first such shows in history.

Naturally a historical occasion should not pass unchronicled. Particularly since pigeons, good looking, self possessed, seem to be a natural and may be to television what Sonny Boy was to the talkies.

The star of the show was the parlor tumbler, a peculiar creature that can't fly.

Other birds can't fly, of course. But the tumbler knows how to fly until he's five months old, and then forgets.

This is because as he grows his sense of balance becomes distorted, and he's no longer able to fly right. He just tumbles.

There's a story, never fully confirmed, that the late Gen. Roy Geiger learned how to loop the loop in an airplane by watching tumblers.

Anyway, Geiger, then a young Marine lieutenant, used to hang out at Elisha Hanson's.

Hanson, a one-time newspaper reporter who grew up to be counsel for the American Newspaper Publishers Association, was—and is—a pigeon fancier.

Geiger watched the tumblers tumble, gave up trying to loop his airplane forwards. He'd try it backwards, like the birds.

He was right, too. Planes have been making like pigeons ever since.

Like any good show, this one had a villain.

The pigeons, among the 650 owned by Hanson, were shown by his son Arthur.

Among them was the Russian trumpeter. Due to a peculiar mass of feathers on his head, the Russian trumpeter can't look upward. He always looks down at his pigeon toes. From time to time, when he's in the mood, he lets go with a noise that is variously described as a hollow laugh and talking into a barrel.

But last night, with a chance to make history, he just stood there sulkily staring at his feet.

He wouldn't laugh hollowly and/or talk into a barrel.

Well, you know the Russians.

If you were the President of A&P...

What would you do to make your A&P a better place to shop?

Have you ever said to yourself, "If I were the President of A&P, I know what I'd do"? I think there are many A&P customers who would like the opportunity to express themselves on the subject of their A&P. I really believe that from your side of the counter, you know A&P best. That's why I ask your opinion.

You can help to make your A&P an even better place to do all your food buying by sending me your suggestions ... criticisms ... and opinions.

For instance, what about our service? Is it as courteous and helpful as you would like it to be? Is it prompt and efficient, too? Do you always find all items plainly and correctly price-tagged – as they should be? What in your opinion are we doing that we could do even better? Or what are we not doing that you feel we should do?

I INVITE YOU TO WRITE AND TELL ME HOW YOUR A&P MAY SERVE YOU BETTER

We of A&P want to make our stores the finest places of all in which to shop. That is why your suggestions, criticisms and opinions will be gratefully received and acknowledged. You see there are 100,000 employees of A&P from coast to coast jealously guarding the A&P reputation for courteous, honest, and efficient service. They never want to fail you in any way, but if they do, I am sure that they, as well as I, would appreciate your writing me.

Hampshire Men Will Clear Way For Power Line

Line Will Extend To Cumberland

ROMNEY, W. Va.—Last weekend John B. Smith, Augusta, and David Alexander, Paw Paw, entered into a contract with the Northern Virginia Power Company to clear the right of way for a high tension power line which that company will construct from its new power plant at Riverton, near Front Royal, Va., to Cumberland, Md.

This new power line will tie together power plants of the Northern Virginia Power Company and the Potomac Edison Company at Cumberland, the parent company of the local Potomac Light and Power Company, and will enable these companies to exchange and supplement power for either concern when necessary for maintenance of service.

The new high tension line will cross Hampshire County from the Frederick County, Va., line on the east to the Mineral County, W. Va., line on the west, crossing Jersey Mountain at or near Points. The line will cross Mineral and Hampshire counties in West Virginia and Frederick and Warren counties in Virginia.

The contract calls for the clearing of a strip of land 100 feet wide for a distance of about 61 airline miles. It is estimated that 500 acres will be cleared. Work is to begin immediately on the west end of the project and is to be completed by April 15, 1949.

Rights of way over lands in Hampshire County already have been secured.

This is a large contract and will involve the expenditure of a very considerable sum of money for labor in this county during the coming winter.

SOON READY FOR AXE—A part of the flock of 6,000 bronze turkeys being reared on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robeson, New Germany Road, near Avilton, Garrett County, is shown here. In addition to the part of the flock shown on the photograph, there are 2,000 white turkeys in a neighboring field on the Robeson farm. The turkeys at the present time range from four to five months old and, according to Robeson, are fed from fifty to fifty-five hundred pounds of oats and turkey pellets daily. Near Thanksgiving Day, on account of growth and increased weight, they will require an average of one pound of feed each daily or 8,000 pounds for the entire flock per day. Similar flocks of turkeys, although not as large, may be seen on other farms on the Avilton Road after leaving Route 40, and also in other sections of the Grantsville area of Garrett County.

Defendant Wins Damage Suit In Death Of Boy

PARSONS, W. Va.—A jury returned a verdict in favor of Joe K. Gillis in a suit against him by Guy Floyd, administrator of Charles Floyd, deceased, to recover damages for the death of Charles Floyd, killed in a truck wreck September 2, 1947. The case was heard at the regular term of September court held in Parsons this week.

Charles Floyd, 12, was instantly killed when the beer truck he was riding in wrecked at Brandywine last year. Testimony showed the drive shaft of the new truck broke, fell off and broke the brake line, making the truck uncontrolable. The vehicle ran into a garage in that town. The boy had started to jump from the truck cab when he was caught between the truck and the garage killing him instantly. Attorney D. E. Cuppert, Sr., representing the plaintiff, presented a motion for a new trial.

During the same term of court the jury returned a verdict in favor of Miner Bonner for $42.50 for hauling, on a strip mining job, from Renzel Burton.

The train is scheduled to make a stop here at 12:35 p. m. Saturday and President Truman is scheduled to make a brief talk while the train is being serviced.

Senator Harley Kilgore, who will be aboard the special train, will remain in Keyser following Truman's address to speak at a Democratic rally at Mineral County Court House Saturday afternoon. He will also speak at a rally in Romney Saturday night.

Amish Of Elk Lick Area Husk Corn And Delay Prayer Meeting In Jail

Four Male Members Of Sect Sentenced

SOMERSET, Pa., (AP)—Amishmen of Elk Lick Township decided yesterday you can sing hymns and pray any time but that you need good weather for husking corn.

This decision washed out plans for a prayer meeting tonight in Somerset County jail for four Amishmen serving 20-day terms for refusing to send their teen-age children to school.

Amishmen said when they planned the session, the weather looked like it would be too bad for husking corn. Since then it had cleared and the corn already was overdue for harvesting.

The meeting at the jail will still be held, sometime next week.

The four prisoners—Amos Yoder, James Petershein, Menno Brenneman and Enos Mast—completed a 12-day term on a similar charge only last Friday. When the children—all 15 and 16 years old—still failed to report at the school, the men were sentenced again Tuesday night. They refused to pay fines of $20 each which would have kept them out of jail.

The Amish say "higher education" is a waste of time for farm boys and girls. The sect is described as a strict old-world religious order.

Miss Skinner To Present Program At Keyser High

Noted Actress To Give Monologues

KEYSER — Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner, noted actress, author and radio star, will present a program of monologues at the Keyser High School Auditorium tonight at 8:15 o'clock. This program will mark the first of a series of convocations arranged by Potomac State School.

Miss Skinner, who has been engaged in theatrical activities on Broadway and on the road, has not devoted a season to solo performances since 1942 and 1943. However, she did give her performances at camp, hospital, and canteen shows throughout the recent war.

She appeared in Lillian Hellman's "The Searching Wind" during a long engagement in New York. There was a full season in the same city as the star in "Lady Windemere's Fan" and a second season in the Oscar Wilde revival that took her to the West Coast and British Columbia.

In 1948 Miss Skinner assisted in the film production of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," the best seller which she wrote in collaboration with Emily Kimbrough. While in Hollywood she appeared in "The Uninvited".

Returning to New York, Miss Skinner wrote and starred in the popular "William and Mary" radio series which was heard on the Dinah Shore and Philip Morris Broadcasts. She has also taken part in several "Information Please" radio programs.

"Family Circle", the biography of her famous parents, Otis Skinner and Maud Durbin, both famous in the theater world, is receiving excellent reviews.

Staggers Suggests Building Idea For W. Va. Schools

Recommends Starting Depletion Tax Plan

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Vernon A. Staggers, principal of Piedmont High School, discussed the method of raising funds for a 10-year school building program for West Virginia at the weekly luncheon recently of the Tri-Towns Rotary Club.

Mineral County completed an extensive building program 10 years ago, but already the need is felt for additions to the buildings.

Federal aid is available but only to match funds put up by the county or the state.

The West Virginia tax limitation amendment makes it practically impossible for county school boards to finance a building program through the regular levy.

Staggers recommended an annual depletion tax to be placed on coal, gas and oil for a 10-year period. Such a tax, he stated, would not work hardship and would provide the necessary funds.

If qualified teachers are to be retained in West Virginia higher salaries will have to be paid, he declared.

R. B. Coughenour Appeals For Safety

According to up-to-date figures, R. B. Coughenour, district forest protector for the Division of Forestry of the Conservation Commission of West Virginia says, that 12 per cent of our forest land burned by fire would harbor more game than most hunters would have time to seek.

"No practice," he said, "could better bear the label, Wanton Waste, than our habit of burning up about 25 million acres of forested land each year in the United States. It is very probable we have burned up more game than we have shot and destroyed as much timber as we have harvested.

"Nothing can be more terrifying than a raging, blasting forest fire. As most hunters know, some animals such as deer and bear, absolutely refuse, in the face of death, to leave their natural range. When flushed, partridge and grouse always fly in a predetermined direction regardless of danger ahead. We, as members of the West Virginia Conservation Commission's fire control organization are unanimous in proclaiming, that given the proper public cooperation in fire prevention and suppression, we can cope with the forest fires that do result from carelessness. We also feel, that while the average hunter is a true sportsman at heart, many are unconsciously the cause of a number of forest fires," Coughenour said.

Here are a few of the standard rules, designed to reduce the number of forest fires, therefore giving us more abundant game and better forests to provide food and cover for it:

1. Smoke only in areas clear of inflammable materials.
2. Be sure your match is out and break it into before throwing it away.
3. Be sure that pipe heels, cigar and cigarette stubs are dead out before leaving them, and never toss them into brush, leaves or needles.
4. Never build a fire against trees, logs or brush-piles and go away leaving it burn.
5. Never leave a fire until it is dead out.
6. Never burn trash or debris on a windy day or while there is the slightest possibility of the fire getting away.
7. Put out any small fires you may discover and report "AT ONCE," to the nearest Local Forest Protector or Forest Fire Tower.

2,620 Names Are Added To Poll Books In County

GOP Gets 1,394 Voters, Democrats, 1,226

Names of 2,620 voters—1,394 Republicans and 1,226 Democrats — were placed on the poll books as a result of the recent registration of voters in the county, according to Patrick F. King, clerk to the Board of Election Supervisors.

King said the figures are complete, except for two small precincts which have failed to make returns. Yesterday was revision and return day and King was at the Court House accepting reports from officials of the 75 polling places.

Democratic Party leaders were happy over the large number of Democratic voters placed on the books and pointed out that the percentage increase is much larger than the Republicans as there are about 5,000 more registered Republicans than Democrats in the county.

King said no definite figures would be available for some time on the actual figures for the two parties. The last reported figures gave the Republicans about 23,000 voters to approximately 18,000 Democrats.

It was pointed out by King today that more than 4,000 voters' names were stricken from the poll books last year because they had failed to exercise their voting franchise for the previous five-year period.

The registration was much better than had been anticipated with 2,620 voters being added to the books. Subtracting this figure from the 4,000 voters stricken from the books leaves a loss of about 1,500 and many of these are believed to have moved to other parts of the country or else have been persons who died in recent years.

It is reported by observers that the Democrats hold a slight majority over the Republicans in the City of Cumberland. The GOP has an edge in the Georges Creek section, which is traditionally the stronghold of Republicanism.

Siam's "White" Elephant May Not Be White

BANGKOK—(AP)—Siam's newest white elephant may not be white after all, but it has a "wonderful" complexion. The beast, captured in the jungles of North Siam in July, is to be a feature of the procession next year for King Phumiphon Aduldej's coronation. But recently disquieting rumors reached Bangkok that the elephant wasn't white after all.

Bangkok authorities asked the provincial commissioner for information immediately. The commissioner replied that there was no certainty that the elephant was truly white, but that the animal "possesses a complexion of wonderful color."

The commissioner said such an important question as the determination of the animal's color shouldn't be left to local authorities. He asked that the central government send a special commission north to rule on the matter. Nor is there room for much opinion about when an elephant is white. Siam has a White Elephant Act, passed 28 years ago, which prescribes stringent tests for aspiring elephants.

The elephant had already given the government another headache. Three villagers are contesting for th honor of having captured him, an honor which carries with it a title and a money reward.

Doctors Told Reds Behind Socialized Medicine Drive

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 14 (AP)—About 500 doctors attending the fall meeting of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland were told today that socialized medicine would be a "wedge by which the Communists could drive into the American way of life."

The speaker was Arthur L. Conrad, Chicago, associate administrator of the National Physicians Committee for the Extension of Medical Services.

He said there was no doubt in his mind that "the power behind the drive for socialized medicine is the Moscow-dominated Communist Party in New York."

Fire Brick Plant At Zihlman One Of Country's Major Industries

FROSTBURG — The fire brick plant of the Big Savage Refractories Corporation at Zihlman, near here, ships various types of fire brick manufactured from the clay deposits of Big Savage Mountain to points all over the world.

Modernized and enlarged during the past several years, the plant, operated by Joseph H. Kruson, 79 West Main Street, Frostburg, has become one of the outstanding industries of Allegany County.

At present, the plant is Allegany County's biggest shipper of what is regarded by experts as highly superior fire clay from Big Savage.

The establishment of a fire brick plant on the Zihlman site dates back to 1902 when the Big Savage Fire Brick Company began business with Davisson Armstrong as president, John N. Benson as vice president and general manager, and D. A. Benson as secretary-terasurer. Directors were Lawrence D. Willison, F. A. Buckholtz, Fred Wehner and H. E. Weber.

Following the deaths of nearly all the officers and directors, the plant was acquired by Kruson and his associates in the corporation.

From almost the inception of coal mining in the Georges Creek basin a century ago, flint fire clay has been mined in the area. One of the industry's pioneer plants was the Union Mining Company at Mt. Savage, which closed several years ago.

"Too Hasty" Patterson Will Trial Is Opposed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—An effort to speed up court handling of the will of the late Mrs. Eleanor Medill (Cissy) Patterson was opposed today by counsel for her daughter, the Countess Felicia Gizycka, who is contesting the will.

Harold A. Kertz, counsel for the Countess, said those attacking the document needed time to get more evidence. He opposed what he called "unseemly haste" in bringing the case to trial.

The executors have their evidence, he argued, but his client "has yet to discover and find out evidence."

The Countess, Mrs. Patterson's only daughter, is contesting the disposition of the $16,500,000 esate left by her mother, who was publisher of the Washington Times-Herald.

Under the will the paper would be left to seven of its officials.

Maryland States' Rights Chairman Assails Lane

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP) — The chairman of the Maryland States' Rights Democrats said today failure of the party to get on the ballot will cut its expected vote by "more than half."

Chairman E. Steuart Vaughan attacked Gov. Lane and Sen. Tydings (D-Md.) for failure of the Sattes' Righters to get on the ballot. The Governor last night refused a request to call a special session of the Legislature to change the election laws so States' Rights candidates could have their names on the November ballot.

"Lane and Tydings are too afraid of President Truman's reaction if they gave in that much to the States' Rights sentiment in Maryland," Vaughan charged. He added that both "have brought their own political careers to an end in Maryland because of the widespread sentiment."

The club moved to its new quarters on Union Street in 1944 and has remained there since. There are now 585 members in the organization.

Bridges Spikes Rumors Strike To End Soon

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14 (AP) — Harry Bridges squelched any hopes today that striking CIO longshoremen would be going back to work soon.

"There is no truth in rumors of a speedy settlement," Bridges told a press conference. The maritime strike, which has tied up shipping along the West Coast, is in its 42nd day. Bridges says it may last for six months.

Allan Haywood, national CIO vice-president, and his assistant, R. J. Thomas, were sent to the West Coast to try and revive negotiation between striking maritime unions and the waterfrot employers, Bridges explained.

Chamber Issues Warning Against Survey Rackets

Scheme Is Used To Get In Homes

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will co-operate with the National Better Business Bureau in a concerted drive to halt the phony survey approach in selling.

Harold W. Smith, manager, said the practice of gaining entrance to homes under the guise of making a survey may pave the way for high pressure salesmanship or racketeering.

The practice, he added, hurts legitimate surveys which perform a real service to everyone by sampling public opinion on subjects of interest to the public and to business firms.

The Better Business Bureau reports the phony survey approach has had wide repercussions. One phony researcher (actually a book salesman) is being sought by New England police because he, after getting a housewife to tell him of her radio listening preferences, "indecently assaulted" her.

Such misleading tactics, the Bureau said, is unfair to all in direct selling who do not use a "deceptive door opener" and creates ill will for national advertisers whose good names are used in making such "surveys" and in making unauthorized requests for box tops to accompany payments for some irrelevant commodity.

The Bureau announced it will take aggressive action against concerns engaged in national business who authorize such deceit on the part of salesmen.

Some research organizations, the Bureau said, report their agents have had doors slammed in their faces in some communities which have been victimized by phony approach tactics.

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and the Police Department are always ready to advise and to take necessary action in doubtful cases.

In Cumberland, sales crews must furnish credentials, photographs and fingerprints at Police Headquarters before beginning work here. A call to police to check on the credentials of strange salesmen is always in order.

You will notice the parlor pinks and the political strawberry blondes have all galloped for the cyclone cellar. But they are wrong about wars starting on election day. That's when we end them.

Fort Hill Eleven Meets Calvin Coolidge Tonight

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—In the absence of direct quotes from the horse itself we have it from the next best authority that the only race Citation lost this year in 16 starts it could have won.

The authority is Jimmy Jones, Calumet Farms' trainer, who wants it known the great three-year-old was defeated by Saggy in the Chesapeake Trial at Havre De Grace only because Jones had the welfare of the animal at heart.

It is recalled that Eddie Arcaro had been assigned to ride citation after regular jockey, Al Snider, had been lost on a fishing trip off the Florida coast. The Chesapeake Trial, three weeks before the Kentucky Derby, was a six-furlong event and Jones figured it offered a good chance for the horse and the new rider to become acquainted. Arcaro never had ridden citation before.

Citation was beaten by a length by Saggy in the test, chiefly because he was carried wide on the muddy track by the drifting Hefty, with Jockey Carson Kirk up.

"Arcaro could have beaten Saggy that day, by beating citation up," Jones explains. "I told Eddie before the race that the horse was undefeated except for one race as a second to his stablemate, Bewitch, in the Arlington Furturity, and I actually would like to keep him unbeaten.

"But if it came to a choice of punishing the horse I told him not to do it, as I didn't want to jeopardize his chances in the Derby. I told him not to kill him if he got into trouble.

"Hefty carried him out at the head of the stretch," Jones continued, indicating that was trouble enough for anyone. "It was a pure fluke.

In fairness to the horse, who probably is the all-time great, I think such a thing should be publicized."

The Trial was on a Monday, and the next Saturday Citation won the Chesapeake Stakes, a mile and one-sixteenth test, by four and one-half lengths, with Bouvard second and Saggy a sagging last in the four-horse field.

Citation, for the second consecutive week, is entered in a $100,000 event Saturday. It is the Empire City Gold Cup, being raced at Belmont, and a victory in the event would boost the Calumet star into second place in the list of top money winners.

Citation to date has won $744,650 in two years, the most any horse ever won during a similar period. Stymie tops the money earners with $911,335, with Armed, also a Calumet horse, runnerup with a total of $773,700, the figure which Citation can pass with his expected triumph this week.

Jones plans to race him in one more event this year after next Saturday, taking him into Baltimore for the Pimlico Special.

In the lone defeat last year Calumet horses finished 1-2-3, with Bewitch, Citation and Free America finishing in that order, so whether Citation also would have won that event is open to question.

But as far as the Chesapeak Trial defeat is concerned, it was just a case of Arcaro obeying orders and Jones refushing to risk the horse's great future in a six-furlong event on a muddy track.

The league leading Bruce eleven will invade Barton to meet the Braves who have been idle for two weeks in the other loop tilt slated for this afternoon. Both games will get underway at 2:30 p. m.

Central suffered its first defeat Tuesday at the hands of Bruce by a 1-0 score and will be on the rebound against the Finzelmen. Beall, after dropping its first two games, came back with a rush to conquer Flintstone earlier this week by a 7-2 score.

Ray Middleton will officiate at the Frostburg battle which looms as the best of the day while Ed Thompson will be referee at the Bruce-Barton fray.

Flintstone, the only team in the five-school circuit which has not won a game this season, will be idle.

Kelly Released As Cincinnati Coach

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14 (AP)—George Kelly, first-base coach of the Cincinnati Reds in 1947 and 1948, will not return next season, President Warren C. Giles announced today.

Kelly, formerly a star first baseman and slugger for the New York Giants, and in 1927, 1928, 1929 and 1930 with Cincinnati, came here as a coach when Johnny Neun became manager.

Bucky Walters succeeded Neun late last season. Managers usually select their own coaches.

Cleveland Needs Few Changes To Defend Its Title

Veeck Likes Team As It Now Stands

By LARRY SMITH

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians won't need much overhauling for defense of their world championship, President Bill Veeck said today.

"Of course, that doesn't mean we'll repeat but we'll be up there with the best of them," Bill hastened to add.

Veeck conceded that "we can't stand pat completely. No team should adopt that attitude. But I don't think many changes will be necessary.

"We have a pitching staff that is good for five more years," Veeck said. "Our outfield is one of the best and there isn't a better catcher in the league than Jim Hegan.

"With the exception of (Eddie) Robinson at first, our infield is past the 30 mark, but I'm looking for another good year from (Lou) Boudreau, (Ken) Keltner and (Joe) Gordon. Some people will tell you those three are slowing up but they played some great baseball this year. Some younger fellows might cover more ground but you can't beat instinct and experience.

"Our pitching looks awfully good to me," Bill remarked. "Gene Bearden and Bob Lemon both won 20 games and this was the first full season on the mound for both of them.

"Bob Feller will come back. In fact, he did come back this year in spite of the fact he lost two series games. A lot of people overlook the fact that he helped us tremendously in the stretch drive. Remember, he won seven straight before Hal Newhouser beat us and forced us into that playoff with the Red Sox. Nobody could have beaten Newhouser that day."

Veeck also expects a lot of pitching help next year from Steve Gromek. The 27-year-old right-hander won 19 games for the Indians in 1945, then had two dismal seasons. This year he seemed to find himself as "spot" pitcher, and wound up with nine victories and three losses.

Russ Christopher's possible retirement would seriously hamper the present bullpen corps. Christopher has said repeatedly that this year would be his last in baseball as he didn't wish to place the strain of further competition on an ailing heart.

Veeck said he hadn't discussed the matter lately with Christopher, but "don't be surprised if he stays."

As to the outfield, Veeck said "we're all set there with two great youngsters, (Dale) Mitchell in left and (Larry) Doby in center, but we probably could use a little help in right. Maybe Hank Edwards will take care of that for us."

Edwards dislocated his right shoulder in a game with the Boston Red Sox Aug. 1 when he leaped against the outfield fence and made a spectacular catch of a drive by Stan Spence. He was out of action the rest of the season.

The Indian's president was noncommittal on the subject of whether Boudreau would receive a new managerial contract. The old two-year document runs through next season.

Police Crack Down On Student Betting

Michigan State Scene Of "Illegal" Pools

EAST LANSING, Mich., Oct. 14 (AP)—Michigan State College campus police clamped down today on what they termed student gambling of professionally operated football pools.

Detective Charles Becker said campus police detained three students whom they believed to be "contact men" for a gambling syndicate and seized a quantity of tickets for a week-end pool on collegiate football games, plus a list of student customers.

Detective Becker declared warrants charging illegal possession of gambling apparatus would be asked against the trio of students, Michael Asadourian, 23, and Charles Vartanian, 23, both of Highland Park, Mich., and 24-year-old Elmer Erickson, Lake Odessa, Mich.

Becker said Asadourian declared in statements to police that he had met representatives of the gambling syndicate to obtain tickets. The police officer quoted the other two students as admitting they had sold tickets.

Grid Official Withdraws From Iowa State Games

Cites Abuse, Lack Of Confidence As Reason

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 14—(AP)—A football referee made the news today by withdrawing from his four remaining officiating assignments involving Iowa State College.

Ted O'Sullivan, well-known whistle tooter, acted six days after the Iowa State-Kansas University game on which Cyclone coach Abe Stuber said the Jayhawker football team did half the work and "the officials did the other half" on the first Kansas touchdown. K. U. won 20 to 7.

In a letter to Reaves Peters, executive secretary of the Big Seven Conference, O'Sullivan had this to say:

He thought an official should withdraw only in an "emergency"; that officials should receive the respect and confidence of the players and the coaches and if this "relationship does not exist, sooner or later very unfortunate developments occur which prove embarrassing to everyone concerned."

The Cyclone coach said the officials in the game, O'Sullivan; John Waldorf, umpire; Joe Weir, head linesman, and Dick Pendleton, field judge, took abuse from the Kansas coaches.

He charged the officials heard this abuse and after that "the officiating breaks went Kansas' way. It was merely a case of a squeaking wheel getting the grease."

Stuber and O'Sullivan were teammates at the University of Missouri. They played on the same football team as freshmen in 1923, an together on the varsity the following three years.

Stuber contended O'Sullivan, Waldorf and Pendleton took the abuse from Kansas coaches because of the Missouri backgrounds of the trio and Stuber. Waldorf played at Missouri and Pendleton played at Westminster College, Fulton.

O'Sullivan's remaining assignments at Iowa State were the Cyclones' games with Colorado next Saturday; Oklahoma, Oct. 30; Drake Nov. 6, and Arizona Nov. 20.

He also notified Artie Eilers, commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference he was withdrawing from the Drake-Bradley game at Des Moines, tomorrow night.

Belgium Horse May Run In Gold Cup

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Chances that Bayeux, the Belgian champion, will join the field opposing Citation in Saturday's $100,000 Empire City International Gold Cup, were boosted considerably today.

A Belmont Park veterinarian reported the four-year-old colt suffered only superficial injuries when he reared in his stall while flying the Atlantic Monday. He bruised the hocks on his hind legs.

"We can't say for sure, of course," said his trainer, Albert Vandesteene, "but if he improves as much by tomorrow as in the last 24 hours, he'll be all right."

Bayeux and the English colt, Nathoo, are the only European horses expected to meet the American triple crown champion in the mile and five-furlong classic. They came to New York in the same plane, but Nathoo never batted an eye at the trip, his handlers said.

Irish-Wildcat Series Slated To Terminate

This Year's Clash Ends Relationship

By DAVIS J. WALSH
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (INS) The Notre Dame-Northwestern football series, which has flourished practically unbraken since the golden day of Rockne and the Four Horsemen, will come to an abrupt end with this year's game at Notre Dame Stadium, South Bend.

Full details of the break were not immediately available, but this much could be said today with accurance:

As was the case when the Army-Notre Dame relationship ended with last year's game, the severance came unwillingly on Notre Dame's part. And, if various semi-official versions can be taken literally—not to either.

It is hinted, in fact, that Northwestern's gesture might well be the outgrowth of unfriendly influences, bent upon a campaign of "Isolation" for the all-to-successful institution of Notre Dame football.

It's understood that no stated attempt will be made to replace Northwestern on the Irish schedule for 1949. But by 1950 the Irish propose to do even better than that.

Briefly, they seem currently to have more than a little reason to believe they'll be playing Columbia at Baker Bowl in New York by that time, thus achieving two major purpose at one and same moment.

They'll have closed an advantageous liaison yith one of the big "Prestige" schools from the Ivy League.

They'll have succeeded in bringing about a re-entry into the New York area, unavailable to them since 1946 after the West Point '47 valedictory was shifted by mutual agreement to South Bend.

Columbia-Notre Dame negotiations looking toward 1950 are said to be progressing satisfactorily, with Lou Little—now a bigger factor than ever before in the athletic program at Morningside Heights—represented as being favorable to the proposed deal. There is, moreover, this not altogether trivial consideration:

The Notre Dame game could be used to dedicate Columbia's proposed new 45,000-capacity stadium at or near the present Spuyten Duyvil site, if and when completed at that time. That, of course, remains to be worked out, if at all, by the ways and means department.

Walthall May Miss Penn State Game

Mountaineer Back Has Bad Shoulder

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., (AP)—The prospect that Jimmy Walthall, West Virginia University's aerial wizard, would see action against Penn State Saturday appeared dim today, and the Mountaineers' hopes faded proportionately.

Dr. Sam Morris, Mountaineer team physician, said there was only an "outside chance" that Walthall would be able to play against the Nittany Lions. He suffered a wrenched shoulder in the game against Pitt last Saturday.

Coach Dud Degroot indicated that either Sophomore Bill Allen or Junior Russ Combs would carry on at quarterback in place of Walthall, with Ray Caldwell and Vic Bonfili at the halfbacks and Pete Zinaich at full.

The Mountaineers finished their pre-game "homework" today, and will leave for State College early tomorrow. The team will hold a warm-up session at State College tomorrow afternoon before going on to Bellefonte to spend the night.

Several hundred WVU students and fans will follow the gridders to Penn State for the Saturday attraction.

Mangrum Takes Lead In Glendale

GLENDALE, Cal., Oct. 14 (IN)—Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago professional, found Oakmont Country Club very much to his liking today as he fired a six-under-par 66 to take the first-round lead in the $15,000 Glendale Open golf tournament.

Johnny Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz., fired a 68 for second place.

Tournament favorite Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., posted a 69. So did Zell Eaton, Montebello, Cal., and Ed Oliver, Seattle.

Trailing these leaders with score of 70 for the par-72 course were Skip Alexander of Lexington, N. C., and Fred Hawkins of Antioch, Ill.

Eisenberg Returns To Duke Lineup

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 14 (AP)—Tackle Lloyd Eisenberg reinforced Duke's forward wall as the Blue Devils ended heavy work today preparatory to Saturday's clash with Maryland.

The giant tackle had been sidelined all week with an injury sustained in the Navy game, but he was back in uniform today and took part in a scrimmage against the freshman team. He should be able to see action against the Terps.

The squad will work out lightly tomorrow and the board a special train along with althletic officials, the band, and many students and followers headed for the game.

They arrive in Washington Saturday morning, will make headquarters at the Hotel Ambassador, and return to Durham after the game.

Finally Wins One

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(INS)—Jockey Bobby Permane piloted Grey Flight to victory in the Cherry Grove Handicap at Jamaica today after having ridden in 127 consecutive races without a winner.

The University of Maryland football team now has a brother combination. Joe Tucker, playing quarterback for the varsity Terps and his brother Bill, playing end for the Old Line frosh.

Deer Slayers Are Fined In State

THURMONT, Md., Oct. 14 (AP)—Two men were fined $125 each today for shooting a deer out of season.

Leo B. Lewis of Emmitsburg and Sherman O. Lewis of Graceham pleaded guilty to charges of having a dead deer in their possession out of season and having loaded rifles in their automobile.

Magistrate William J. Stoner fined each $100 on the first count and $25 for the rifle charge. Both paid their fines.

They were arrested by Deputy Warden D. W. Kettell last Tuesday on the Frederick River watershed.

Giants Release Two

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (INS)—The New York Giants today announced the unconditional release of two veteran utility infielders, Lonnie Frey and Johnny McCarthy.

BASSLER AND GIBSON ADVANCE TO FINALS IN BALTIMORE OPEN

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—Andy Gibson defeated defending champion Ralph Beach one up, and Charley Bassler eliminated Harold Oatman, 2 and 1, today to advance to the finals in the 14th annual Baltimore Open golf championship at the Green Spring Hunt Club.

Gibson, veteran pro from the Country Club of Maryland held a three-up advantage over Beach after nine holes, but was carried to the final green by the 1947 titlist.

Bassler, pro at Rolling Road, moved into the lead on the first nine, was tied by the rotund Norfolk, Va., professional on the fourteenth ,and then shot birdies in the 15th and 16th to go two up. He clinched the match by halving the 17th.

Onslow Making Plans For 1949 Chisox Season

Wants Hustling Club; To Make Some Trades

By CHARLES EINSTEIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 14 (INS)—Jack Onslow, 59 years old with eyes like an unsuccessful hunting dog, came into town and started talking about the White Sox.

Nobody has a better right to talk about the White Sox than Onslow, who recently became their new manager. He was preceded by a horde of Jack Onslow stories, most notable of which was the tale of the time he went on the radio as a guest speaker and began, with deep charm:

"Hello, Jack Onslow, this is everybody speaking."

In the flesh, Onslow, who managed the White Sox farm team at Memphis during the past season, is pudgy, bespectacled, and somewhat becalmed. He also has several good ideas about improving the White Sox, who, as he pointed out, do not figure to get any worse in 1949 than they were in 1948. In 1948, they lost 101 American League games.

Onslow's two-year contract as White Sox manager was accompanied by carte blanche from the front office. White Sox officials, Onslow says, are going to stay where they belong. He didn't say it exactly that way, but that is what he meant. What he actually said was,

"It was agreed I wasn't to be handicapped in any way."

The idea, apparently, is that Onslow has enough of an initial handicap without anybody else getting into the act.

"One thing," Onslow says. "We are going to have a ball club that hustles next season, if nothing else."

To begin with, he is bringing up six fellows who have played for him before, most of them this past season at Memphis. They are Shortstop Fred Hancock, most valuable shortstop in the Southern Association the past two years running; First Baseman Gordon Goldsberry; Pitchers John Perkovich and Charlie Eisenmann and Jim Goodwin, and Outfielders Grover Powers and Gerald Scala.

What is more, Onslow is about to make a series of deals for the White Sox. He is to swing through the east with White Sox money in his pocket and White Sox players up for sale.

"Every guy we have is on the block, theoretically at least," Onslow said, though he did murmur it'd be nice to have 40-year-old Luke Appling around again next year.

"What we aren't going to do," Onslow declares, "is get a 'name' player just for the name's sake. We have to be convinced he is still on the way up—a guy who can become part of a young, hustling club—before we'll go for him."

Somebody asked him how long he thought it would take to put the White Sox in the first division.

Onslow smiled like a cherub and said who knows?

Maryland Gridders Preping For Duke

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 14 (AP)—The University of Maryland football squad tapered off practice today for the Saturday encounter with Duke with an accent on passing offense and tightening ground defense.

The game will be played in Griffith Stadium in Washington.

Coach Jim Tatum had Vic Turyn, Joe Tucker and Jack Targarona chucking passes most of the afternoon.

The first squad worked briefly with the freshmen, who played the part of Duke based on scout reports.

Today's practice was the last workout before the game. Tomorrow's session will be limited to blackboard talks.

The freshmen meet Georgetown Frosh tomorrow afternoon in Washington.

Robinson To Defend Welterweight Title

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (INS)—Welterweight Champion Ray Robinson promised the Tournament of Champions today that he will defend his title against the winner of the Charlie Fusari-Tippy Larkin welterweight bout.

The Fusari-Larkin bout will be held in Jersey City Oct. 21. Robinson already has agreed to fight Steve Belloise in a ten-round non-title match Dec. 2.

Promoter Andy Niederreiter said he has guaranteed Robinson $35,000 for the championship match, but as yet has not selected a date or site.

A strong Calvin Coolidge High School eleven seeking its first victory of the season will invade Fort Hill stadium to battle the Fort Hill Sentinels tonight with the game getting underway at 8 o'clock.

The Colts hail from the District of Columbia, the school being located in the suburban area of Takoma Park and the Orange and Grey team has lost three games to date to teams in the Washington area.

Record Not Impressive

Coach Bill Hahn has been preping the Sentinels for their toughest game of the season, saying "Calvin Coolidge's record might not be too impressive on paper" but has played some of the strongest teams in the District this season. Coolidge lost to Anacostia 13-0, Eastern 20-6 and to Central High 14-0.

Seeking additional strength for his forward wall which will collide with a line averaging over 200 pounds, Coach Hahn has been working Jack Holliday out at a guard position and says the husky lineman will probably see plenty of action against the Colts.

Coached by Gil Conn, Calvin Coolidge will leave Washington this morning, either by train or bus, and will stay in Cumberland overnight, returning to the Capital City Saturday morning.

The orange and grey clad Colts have two 250-pound tackles in Colburn and Horan and are sparked by a left-handed passer named Duvall. Several other speedy backs also make the Colts' offensive potentially explosive Hahn said, adding that the Washingtonians also probably will be the best defensive team the Scarlet and White gridders have met this year.

The game is expected to attract a capacity crowd at the local stadium and in order to prevent a turnstile jam, tickets have been placed on sale at the high school office, the Wilson Hardware Company and at Truitt's Drug Store.

Alco Plays Tomorrow

Allegany High School's unbeaten and unscored-upon Campers have also been tapering off in their drills this week for the coming battle with Keyser High School's Golden Tornado tomorrow at the Greenway Avenue bowl.

Keyser was walloped by Fort Hill in its only appearance here several weeks ago and Coach Bob Pence's high-scoring Alcomen should have little difficulty against the Mineral Countians.

In Potomac Valley Conference games today Ridgeley goes to Moorefield and Petersburg entertains Franklin while in other contests the undefeated Romney High Pioneers will play host to Parsons and the Bedford Bisons will meet Huntingdon High in a night game at Bedford.

Cats Preping For Homecoming Tilt

Strong Washington Team Will Be Foe

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 14—Coach Dana Lough's Potomac State Catamounts underwent stiff scrimmage sessions this week in preparation for their homecoming battle with a strong Naval Receiving Station eleven from Washington, D. C., tomorrow afternoon at 2 p. m.

A huge homecoming day crowd is expected to witness the game and a gala affair is planned for the event. After an Alumni Association luncheon and the game several sororities will hold teas before the big homecoming day dance gets underway at 8:30 p. m. at the college gym.

The Loughmen will be seeking their second victory in four starts against a strong eleven which averages over 200 pounds and will outweigh the light Catamount team in every position.

Lough said the Cats are in good shape physically except for one or two positions. Jim White or Dick Harmison will get the nod at the center position and John Lenevich may be a surprise starter at end if Harmison gets the pivot spot goahead.

Officials for the game will be Newt Anderson, referee; Estel "Eck" Miers, umpire; Steve Herick, head linesman; and William "Huck" Miers, field judge.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—(INS)—I used to think, when I saw Johnny Sheffield riding an elephant in the jungle scenes in "Tarzan" with his movie father Johnny Weissmuller, that he was the "cutest" youngster on the screen.

Mickey Rooney

Well, tempus certainly does fugit, and now that little boy is seventeen with a jungle series all his own.

Today, Johnny was on the Monogram lot with his leading lady Peggy Ann Garner, getting ready to start "Bomba, the Jungle Boy," the first of the series.

These Junior Tarzan episodic movies, based on the Roy Rockwood stories, will have Walter Mirisch as their producer, and Ford Beebe as their director.

• — • — •

The unpleasant husband in "The Forsyte Saga" may be played by James Mason. Here again is one of those deals that must be worked out. Mason is due to play "Trilby," and if "Forsyte Saga" can be held up long enough for him, or if "Trilby" is postponed, he will be teamed with Greer Garson.

Naturally, Galsworthy's famous "Forsyte Saga" is laid in England and calls for stars with a British accent, of course, both Greer and Mason have that.

The reason the unpredicable James is so interested is because Compton Bennett, who directed him in "Seventh Veil," would be his director in the Galsworthy epic.

• — • — •

Robert Siodmak, whose specialty used to be directing mystery "Mellers," is finishing "The Great Sinners" at MGM with a 14-karat-gold cast of Gregory Peck, Ava Gardner, etc.

Now, Siodmak will swing to the other extreme, and direct "A Stone In the Hudson," with a cast of unknowns. Looks like Siodmak is taking a leaf from the book of Vincente De Sica, the Italian director who went out on the streets of Rome to get his talent for "Shoe Shine," and is doing the same with "Bicycle Thieves," which he is now directing.

The reports of Claudette Colbert's serious illness are very much like the fabled exaggerations of Mark Twain's death. Claudette had the flu like many of us, and she has gone to Taos, New Mexico, with her husband, Dr. Joel Pressman, on a vacation. But she was never dangerously sick.

The Pressmans will be home Sunday. Now Claudette is horseback riding and enjoying the New Mexican sunshine.

• — • — •

I don't like to pick on Mickey Rooney, he's been picked on so much, but I hope it isn't true that he is dickering for the revival of "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," the famous George M. Cohan play.

I just couldn't bear to see Mickey as the beloved George Cohan, who had a warmth that Mickey has never been able to achieve.

I hear Sol Baron, manager of the Cohan estate, has had an offer from Mickey for the play, which was first presented in 1916 with George Cohan, and was a howling success.

The memory of Father Flanagan, whose Boys Town did so much for the unfortunate youngsters, will live forever in the hearts of those who knew him.

Yet, it is nice that an outward expression of this love has been made by MGM in a short called "City of Little Men," dedicated to Father Flanagan. Captain Melvin Dunn, U. S. Air Force, and a graduate of Boys Town, did the narration.

The premiere will be held in Omaha, Nebraska, October 25 it will be the first time a one-reeler has ever been given an opening with civic, state and church dignitaries present.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Lawrence Tierney has been dropped from the RKO contract list. That doesn't surprise Hollywood too much.

Today Tommye Adams blew into town to see George Jessel. If these two can keep from battling for a month, it will be a marriage.

Charles Laughton, who was as surprised as anyone, was named in a Paris journal as one of the world's best-dressed men.

Hedy LaMarr has a date with her San Francisco boy friend. Let me say again, he has the inside track in Hedy's affections.

That's all today.

Remove bread and rolls from pans as soon as they come from the oven. This prevents moisture from condensing and spoiling the crispness of the crust and the lightness of the crumb.

Is French toast a favorite of yours? Then you'll like these French Toasted sandwiches. First make sandwiches of enriched white bread. Fillings of peanut butter, cheese, peanut butter mixed with honey; and prepared sandwich spreads are especially good. Dip each sandwich into a milk and egg mixture made by combining one and one-half cups milk, one well beaten egg, and one-eighth teaspoon of salt. Fry the sandwiches in butter or margarine, letting them brown evenly at a moderate temperature. Serve hot. A garnish of boiled peach or apricot halves is tasty and attractive.

don't DO that!

REMEMBER THE NEIGHBORS! Don't conduct a child-calling contest from the kitchen window. If necessary, go after Jimmy at dinner time.

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what indigestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

AN URGENT MESSAGE TO ALL WALLACE SUPPORTERS

This coming Monday evening, Senator Glen H. Taylor, running mate of Henry A. Wallace, will speak in Cumberland at the State Armory. Taylor's appearance here gives us an unprecedented opportunity to bring forward the Wallace program for getting back on the Roosevelt highway to peace, prosperity and jobs.

The war and depression parties are gambling recklessly with the lives and welfare of the American people. They build up the Nazis in Berlin; they propose to recognize butcher Franco of Spain; they pour American money into Europe to prop up kings and dictators; they issue 19 injunctions against unions since the Taft-Hartley Law; they wreck price control and housing.

We can make the Taylor Rally next Monday the mightiest demonstration for peace, security and jobs that Cumberland has ever seen — —

If you concentrate your energies for the next three days in talking up the rally with your relatives and neighbors, your friends and shopmates. Call or visit everyone you know. Get your tickets sold and get more any time of day or night from 56 N. Mechanic Street or call 2629-M and we will deliver them to you.

Dewey's St. Paul Address On Radio At 9:30 Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—The Friday Theater for its second production of the CBS produced series will have an hour of "Double Indemnity" at the 9 p. m. Friday time. Playing in the leads will be Joan Bennett, Myron McCormick and the previously announced Burt Lancasters.

Politically, here's the talks scheduled for the night:

ABC, 9:30, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey at St. Paul.

NBC, 10:30, Henry A. Wallace in a half-hour broadcast.

In addition, the Democratic party is presenting a tri-weekly ABC recorded series at 3:45 p. m. It also is heard Mondays and Wednesdays, continuing up to the election.

Gov.-Elect Herman Talmadge of Georgia has been named as the guest for Meet the Press on MBS at 10. Dr. Karl T. Compton, speaking on "Science and Security," is to be heard on CBS at 11:15 in connection with the seventy-fifth anniversary dinner of Ohio State U. at Columbus.

A couple of comparative newcomers come to the boxing light as ABC broadcasts at 10. They are Lee Sala of Pittsburgh and Rubin Jones of Norfolk, Va.

The "Barretts of Wimpole Street" will be the MBS Great Scenes from Great Plays at 8, the cast to include Elizabeth Straight.

Longshoremen were orginally called "along-shore-men" because they worked on the wharves of seaports where they loaded and unloaded vessels.

The Ferris wheel takes its name from its designer, George W. Ferris, American engineer and bridge builder.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Candidates Truman And Dewey

A couple of things distinguish this year's Presidential campaign from all the others since President Roosevelt discovered the radio as a potent campaign instrument. The most important difference between this and other campaigns is money. The Democrats haven't got much. The Republicans have a lot but aren't spending it.

John Crosby

This year the Democrats will purchase 55 to 60 per cent of the air time they had in 1944, the Republicans about 70 per cent. One reason for this is the use of regional networks by both major parties, the first time regional networks were ever employed by Presidential candidates. In the past, candidates always spoke either nationally or locally, never regionally. This year, sensibly enough, the candidates have confined talks about, say, Western power development, to the West, feeling that they were wasting money and possibly even antagonizing voters by afflicting Eastern ears with something they weren't interested in hearing. Actually, the nature of the campaign, which has been more regional than in previous election years, dictated this change.

• — • — •

President Roosevelt's radio campaigns were laid out by Paul Porter and the Biow agency. Both, as even the Republicans ruefully admitted were shrewd operators and, of course, their man was one of the great radio personalities of all time. This year Porter is in private enterprise and President Truman's campaign has been largely mapped by Warwick & Legler, Inc., a reputable ad agency but one which hasn't the experience of Biow. There have been some grievous errors made, not necessarily by Warwick & Legler.

For example, one of the President's major national network speeches was scheduled Labor Day 1:30 p. m. E.D.T. over N.B.C. It was a bad day for it, since most Americans like to get out on the highways and try to kill themselves on Labor Day, and it was also a bad hour. Replying to the President's speech the following day, the Republican National Committee purchased a half hour, from 9 to 9:30 p. m. E.D.T., for Harold E. Stassen. Apart from Sunday, Tuesday is the best night to catch an audience and 9 p. m. is one of the best times on the air. (Bob Hope has it now.) Stassen got at least 50 per cent greater coverage with this speech than the President, despite the fact that the President usually enjoys a competitive advantage because of the prestige of his office.

As this is written, Dewey has twice spoken over national networks to Truman's three speeches and, from a purely radio point of view, Dewey's planners have beaten the Truman forces hands down. Dewey's first speech was Sept. 20 at 10 p. m. over C.B.S. and he followed one of the great audience drawers in radio, Lux Theater, which that night presented "Gentlemen's Agreement," with Gregory Peck. Lux got a 13.5 Hooper rating that night, which is a very nice little Hooper, and Mr. Dewey, riding on Gregory Peck's coattails, got a 13.3 Hooper, which for a political speech in the early days of the campaign is little short of sensational.

• — • — •

All Mr. Dewey's radio planning has been characterized by similar bright opportunism. The Truman forces took their worst licking on the night of Sept. 30, a Thursday when Dewey and Truman (and Governor Warren too) were all on the air. The President wanted all four networks. He didn't get them. He wound up following "Crime Photographer," one of the lesser enterprises of the Columbia Broadcasting System, at 10 p. m., while Dewey landed behind the most popular show on the air that night—Al Jolson in the Kraft Music Hall—on N.B.C. Not only was his spot behind Jolson better than Truman's but also, though C.B.S. will hotly dispute this, N.B.C. has a much larger share of the national audience on Thursday nights than C.B.S.

So while Truman has been at bat three times so far he has been swinging largely at empty air while Dewey has been hitting for extra bases. That's all for today but we'll return to this aspect of the campaign later.

"Why be embarrassed, Susie?... We all understand that everybody goes through an awkward stage!"

Stocks Advance Again In Broadest And Most Active Market Of Month

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 (AP)—Stock prices advanced again today in the broadest and most active market of the month.

Turnover was 980,000 shares, as against 830,000 Wednesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .1 of one point to 69, which was last recorded on September 8. A total of 1,051 stocks appeared on the tape, of which 491 advanced and 281 declined.

Superior Oil of California took a big step forward with a 9⅞ point gain at 195. Skelly Oil moved up an impressive 3⅜ points to 124¾ and National Steel hit a new 1948 high with a gain of 2½ at 103½.

Also ahead were Standard Oil (NJ) at 80⅝, Standard Oil of California 69½, Atlantic Refining 39⅞, United States Steel (up ⅛) 81⅞, American Telephone 152⅛, Oliver Corporation 32⅝, Douglas Aircraft 59, Boeing 25, Publicker Industries 21, Houston Lighting and Power 46¼, (a new 1948 peak), Newmont Mining 59, St. Joseph Lead 54¼, Dow Chemical 48⅜, Radio Corporation 13⅜, United States Gypsum 101½, American Woolen 48¼, Nickel Plate 87½, Kansas City Southern 43¾, Southern Railway 45⅝, and Atlantic Coast Line 53⅜.

Consolidated Vultee slipped in the wake of an unfavorable earnings statement and bond stores reached a new low for the year with a loss of around a point.

Also marked down were Republic Steel, Chrysler, Lee Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Schenley, Cerro De Pasco, du Pont, Phillips Petroleum, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania R. R., Northern Pacific, Union Pacific, Pacific Western Oil, Mission Corporaton and Transcontinental and Western Air.

In the curb, gains were posted for Lone Star Gas, Cuban Tobacco, Creole Petroleum, Ashland Oil, Barium Steel, Rotary Electric Steel, Sherwin Williams, and Fan-Steel Metallurgical. Lower were Cities Service, Electric Bond and Share, and United Shoe Machinery. Volume was 270,000 shares, against 180,000 yesterday.

Demand picked up somewhat in the bond market today but benefits to a number of railroad obligations generally were measured in fractions. And there was a generous scattering of corporates in lower ground.

Man Gives Up In Assault On Taxicab Driver

Tells Police, "It's Getting Too Hot"

One of three assailants of a local taxi driver, sought since September 1, surrendered to local authorities last night and said, "It's getting too hot. I want to give myself up."

Police booked the man as Milton R. Lease, 22, 206 Spring Street, and said they hold a warrant charging him with assault on Chester O'Neal, 52, 71 Taxi driver. O'Neal was hospitalized for several days following the attack.

According to the police version of the attack, Lease and two other men, one of whom is still at large, hired O'Neal's cab at the corner of Bowen and Lafayette Streets and asked to be driven to Bean's Cove, on the Pennsylvania side of the Maryland-Pennsylvania State line.

A man booked as Wallace Newell, 308 Ford Avenue, was arrested a few days after the assault and held for action of the October term of grand jury on an assault charge.

O'Neal was quoted by police as saying the trio attacked him shortly after he turned off Route 40 to Bean's Cove Road. The assailants threw the driver to the road and one of them drove away in the taxicab.

Details on Lease's escape were meagre early this morning as police continued to question him in an effort to locate Jack Simpson, whom they identify as the accomplice still at large.

Desk Sgt. John Sherry said O'Neal walked into police headquarters at 10:45 p. m., and said he wanted to give himself up. He told police he had been hiding at Largent, W. Va., since fleeing from the Bean's Cove Road.

Police said the taxicab was recovered on a road near the Naval Armory on McKaig Hill the day after the attack. Following the attack O'Neal was picked up by passing motorists and taken to Bean's Cove Tavern, where he received first aid.

He was later taken to Memorial Hospital where attaches said his injuries included a lacerated left ear, abrasions of the right eye and a discolored and badly swollen left eye. He has since resumed work.

Besides the cab, O'Neal told authorities after the incident, that he lost his hat, glasses and a set of dentures, but they later were recovered. An undisclosed amount of money in his pocket was not disturbed, the driver informed police.

Following the incident a general alarm was sent out for Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia authorities to be on the lookout for the pair.

Priscilla Ziler Is Awarded $1,250 In Damage Suit

A Circuit Court jury awarded $1,250 yesterday to Priscilla E. Ziler, National, in her suit against Charles E. Schultz, 104 Wood Street, Frostburg beer distributor.

Represented by Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., Mrs. Ziler sought $7,500 damages for injuries she allegedly sustained in a fall through an open trap door in the store-tavern of Leo McNeil, National, where she was employed.

Testimony tended to show that the young woman fell down steps when an employe of Schultz, making deliveries to the place where she was employed on a part-time basis, left the trap door open.

She claims she suffered a fractured arm, three broken ribs, and the loss of several teeth in the fall, and was hospitalized for six weeks.

The room where the trap door is located was described by the plaintiff as being dark and unlighted, but the defense claims there was a light in the room. William A. Gunter and William J. Gunter, attorneys for Schultz, told the jury the room was lighted and contained two light bulbs. They argued Schultz was not responsible for the mishap.

Witnesses summoned included Marie Ziler, Opal Beeman, Mrs. Mary Buskirk, Homer Yates, Albert Baer, Leo McNeill, Ward Wharton, Robert E. Kergan, John Poland, Howard Ziler, Mrs. Howard Ziler, Dr. W. E. Gattens and Dr. F. A. G. Murray.

Martin L. Kolb was foreman of the jury which deliberated more than an hour. The case went to the jury at 3:50 p. m. and a verdict for the plaintiff in the amount of $1,250 was returned at 5 p. m.

Bear Creek Fish Rearing Ponds Are Tourist Attraction In Garrett County

Trout Hatchery Built In 1928

Among the tourist attractions in Garrett County are the Bear Creek fish rearing ponds, located one and one-quarter miles from Route 219, where the main highway intersects with the road to Friendsville.

Visited by hundreds of persons each year during the summer months, the six ponds and the adjoining miniature lakes have a capacity of 40,000 legal-size trout.

At present there are 90,000 trout in the combined ponds and lakes, ranging from fingerlings to legal size fish, according to Regional Game Warden Joseph Minke.

The establishment is maintained by the Inland Game and Fish Commission for use in stocking trout streams in Garrett County. It is under the general supervision of Albert M. Powell, superintendent of state fish hatcheries.

During the past summer a refrigeration plant was constructed at Bear Creek to store food for the fish. Game wardens delivered all deer unclaimed by hunters and unfit for human consumption to the Bear Creek plant, where the meat was ground and used to food the trout.

Seventeen deer killed by motor cars during the past year were also taken to the plant. Contribution of deer carcasses, Minke said, reduce cost of feeding the young fish.

James Beal, fish culturist, has been in charge of the ponds since the retirement of Ralph Miller in March, 1947. Miller resides in a cottage near the ponds.

Beal and his family formerly resided in Mt. Savage.

The rearing ponds were constructed in 1928 by the Inland Game and Fish Commission.

Collection Day TODAY

City Officials Differ On Permit For Sound Truck

Three Councilmen Withhold Sanction

The Mayor and City Council appeared divided yesterday over a permit which would authorize the Progressive Party to operate a sound truck and hold street meetings while campaigning for Henry A. Wallace, party presidential candidate.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday morning he signed a permit, but at least three of the four city councilmen admitted that they declined to affix their signatures to the city document.

Commissioners William H. Buchholtz, William V. Keegan and William J. Edwards said they declined because they objected to the time alloted by the permit. Commissioner Edgar H. Reynolds could not be contacted last night, but it was reported he also declined.

Mayor Post said he gave authorization to Henry Beitscher and Bernard Coleman. He explained that the permit allowed use of an amplifier from 9 a. m. until 7 p. m. daily from now until Monday night.

The permit, according to Mayor Post, also authorizes Progressive Party workers to use the sound truck at street corner meetings from 6 until 9 p. m. during that time.

The three commissioners who admitted declining to sign the permit said they felt the time allotted was too great and indirectly questioned the fact that continued use of the amplifier would create a nuisance in the ciyt.

Both Beitscher and Coleman were temporarily halted from using the sound truck Tuesday afternoon by a policeman when they failed to produce a city permit.

Under an ordinance passed in October, 1932, during the administration of George Henderson, approval of the Mayor and Council is necessary to permit "the use of a machine or device for amplification of the human voice" within the city limits.

Mayor Post's authorization was given verbally to the two men yesterday, but officials declared that written permission is not necessary where a sound truck is operated for political, religious or charitable reasons.

However, a written permit is drawn up and kept as a record at city hall. It was such a permit that the councilmen declined to sign, they said.

The permit question was expected to come up at a special meeting of the Mayor and Council called yesterday afternoon to pass on the municipal payroll. No mention of the sound truck or permit was raised and the meeting was adjourned immediately after the payroll was approved.

The councilmen were asked to sign the permit before and after the meeting.

Fort Hill Is Accredited By Schools Abroad

No Foreign Students Yet Enrolled Here

Although Fort Hill High School holds the distinction of being an accredited school as far as foreign school systems are concerned, no students from other countries have taken courses there since Fort Hill was approved for that purpose last year, Victor D. Heisey, principal, said yesterday.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Allegany) said yesterday he believes Fort Hill is the only school in the state, with the possible exception of Baltimore City, to be accredited for foreign students.

The school was approved by the Immigration and Naturalization Service as in institution of learning for non-quota immigrant students through Beall's efforts.

Beall explained yesterday that boys and girls who come to this country under the Displaced Persons Act and who take up residence in this general area may continue their education at Fort Hill and receive full credits from the school system in their native land.

In addition, other foreign students not in the displaced persons category may also receive credits if they take courses at the school, Beall said.

A representative of the Department of the Interior visited the school in the spring of 1947 and made an exhaustive survey of the curriculum, qualifications of teachers, the type of building and other matters, Heisey said.

No change in curriculum was necessary for the school to become accredited, he added.

School Needs Will Be Studied Here

A comprehensive survey of the expanding needs of education in this city will be made by the Committee on Education of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, Harold W. Smith, manager, announced last night.

Adolph Blunk, chairman, led the discussion yesterday as that group met in the Chamber office to discuss the probable school needs here for the next five years.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, attended and presented data on educational needs.

In Allegany County, as elsewhere in the United States, school facilities must soon meet the challenge of a marked increase in enrollment resulting from the wartime increase in the birth rate, the committee said.

Plans for Christmas decoration and general publicity for the holiday season were approved yesterday at a meeting of the Mercantile Bureau in Central YMCA.

The Public Affairs committee met yesterday and drafted a report to be presented to the Board of Directors at a meeting of that group next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Chamber offices.

Youth Burned In Mishap At Celanese

James Lease, 18, 213 Pear Street, was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday for treatment of second and third degree burns sustained while he was at work at the Celanese plant.

Attaches said Lease told them he was carrying a bucket of hot asphalt when he slipped and fell. He sustained burns to his face and neck and his right forearm. He was reported in "fair" condition last night.

Elmer Hornbrook, Jr., 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hornbrook, Route 2, Williams Road, was treated at the same hospital after he caught his left hand in a sawmill cable. He was treated for lacerations of the third finger of the left hand.

Allegany County Bird Club Opposes Bounties On Hawks, Owls In County

The Allegany County Bird Club at its first fall meeting last night in the Cumberland Free Public Library went on record as opposing the practice of awarding bounties on hawks and owls in Allegany County.

Officers were also elected for the coming year. Kendrick Y. Hodgdon was elected president, Gilbert Miller, vice president; Miss Mildred Willison, secretary, and Miss Marjorie Muncaster, treasurer.

Mrs. Myra C. Taylor was named membership chairman, and Miss Nan Livingstone, Miss Nellie Thomas and Miss Mae Meese were named junior chairmen.

In voicing their opposition to the bounties, members pointed out that only one type of hawk which is harmful to chickens and other farm animals is found in the East. None of the species exists here, they said.

The sharp-shinned hawk is believed to be responsible for the bad reputation of all hawks, it was pointed out, because of its predatory habits.

The only types of hawks found in Allegany County are red-tailed and red-shouldered hawks, it was stated. Neither is harmful to fowl, members pointed out, adding that both types live on mice and other rodents, and are valuable animals, not nuisances.

One member pointed out last night that the state of New York imposes a fine of $25 on any person caught with a hawk in his possession, whether the hawk is dead or alive.

A film, "Spearheads in the Sky," dealing with bird migration, was shown. Miss Thomas led a discussion on the subject of migration after the film had been shown and pointed out that very little has been

The Weather

Few Spartan - minded Cumberlanders were ashamed of their topcoats yesterday as the thermometer dropped to a low of 44 degrees, accompanied by chilly breezes that caused quite a few shivers and chatters and a general feeling that winter was in the air. The weatherman recorded a high of 59 degrees, but by 11 p. m. the mercury had skidded to a chill 49. Precipitation was measured at .18 of an inch. The weather prediction for today doesn't offer much comfort either. It's "mostly sunny but continued rather cool." However, tomorrow is expected to be "fair and warmer" again.

Keegan Urges Fencing Of Play Areas In City

States Equipment Should Be Protected

Stating that there is "no use" in having playground equipment if playgrounds are not fenced in, Police Commissioner William V. Keegan said last night that the $150,000 recreation bond issue should be used to purchase new land for recreation purposes.

Keegan made these comments at a meeting of the Recreation Planning Committee at City Hall.

Recalling conferences he attended several months ago with recreation officials in New Jersey, Keegan said they recommended that playgrounds be fenced in to protect equipment when the grounds were closed.

C. William Spangler, vice chairman of the committee, urged the group to "look ahead five years" and to recommend that the city purchase additional land for recreation space rather than to concentrate solely on the question of playground equipment.

Keegan said in his opinion the city should be able to take care of the development of Constitution Park, and that the $150,000 should be used to acquire new areas. He added that he does not believe school property should be developed.

William E. McCullough expressed the view that one major playground area should be made available in each of the four sections of Cumberland for older boys and girls, while existing small playgrounds should be reserved for young children.

McCullough and H. C. Spiker presented reports on requested improvements at the North End and Pennsylvania Avenue Playgrounds, respectively.

J. C. Patterson, chairman, said all such reports will be studied at the October 28 meeting and requests "pared down", if necessary, so that the total estimated expenditure will fall within the $150,000 limit.

Charles Krapf, sports announcer of Station WCUM, who also attended the meeting, commented that there is a "good stadium" at Fort Hill but that it is not open to public use because it is controlled by "one man."

The stadium, which is on school property, is under supervision of the Board of Education.

P-TA Gets Report From Mrs. Doty

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP) — The Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers turned its attention today to world problems.

In keeping with the three-day convention theme, "Building a Better World," the 400 delegates heard Dr. Ralph McDonald and sat in on a panel discussion of "How To Live Within a Family of Nations."

Dr. McDonald is a member of the World Citizenship Committee and an officer of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the National Education Association.

He said the convention's theme is "not only visionary but as practical as life itself" since every human achievement started as somebody's dream.

While the national officer said male membership in the P-TA is increasing nationally, the ratio at the convention today was about nine women to each man.

Mrs. Robert G. Doty, LaVale, presided at the sessions and made her report as outgoing president. She said the Maryland Congress has almost doubled its membership since end of the war.

The membership now totals 50,645 in 310 locals, Mrs. Doty said. Only three counties lack county councils.

Truck Driver Admits Attack On Local Girl

Police Trace Appold Through Description

The attack on a 13-year-old local school girl was solved last night, police said, by the confession of Eugene Appold, 27, Bowman's Addition, who officers traced through a meager description furnished by the victim.

Appold, a local truck driver, was quoted by police as saying he grabbed Shirley Albright, 5 Ridgeway Terrace, on Henderson Avenue Monday night "because I wanted her to go home with me."

Assistant Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney said the youthful victim identified Appold as the man who grabbed her and pulled her into an alleyway, but later was frightened away by the appearance of a passing pedestrian.

Admits Following Girl

In his confession, Appold told police that he followed the girl for a short distance on Henderson Avenue and then asked her to go with him. He said he grabbed her after receiving a "mumbled" answer.

Police quoted the prisoner, whom they are holding in city jail, as saying that his only reason for grabbing the girl was to take her home with him. "I had no other reason," they quoted him as saying.

He admitted fleeing from the scene and then taking a bus to his home in Bowman's Addition after becoming frightened by the passerby and the girl's screams.

Detective Ernest Powell and State Police Investigator William Baker arrested the truck driver at the Bowman's Addition address after establishing his identity through a meagre description of appearance and the clothing he was wearing.

Police said Appold has a previous recard and is presently on parole from juvenile court. He was also praoled in an automobile larceny investigation, officers said.

Fought Off Assailant

The Albright girl told police that she dropped her books and began to fight Appold off when he grabbed her and pulled her into an alley.

Miss Albright notified police immediately after the incident and Officer Joseph Stitcher traced her assailant, whom he did not know at the time, to Baltimore Street where he lost his trail.

Police said the girl identified Appold immediately last night as the man who grabbed her. The prisoner told police he did not know the girl and didn't remember seeing her before.

Appold signed a full confession before the three officers last night and was booked on the city docket as "held for investigation." Assistant Chief Gaffney said he will be questioned further today and taken to the office of the State's Attorney.

Umpire Sustains Kelly Firm In Discharge Case

The discharge of W. E. Knippenberg, who was fired by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company on July 19, was upheld by Jacob J. Blair, Pittsburgh, umpire for the company and Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, in an arbitration award received here yesterday.

The Knippenberg discharge case was one of two arbitration cases heard here on September 7. Blair will return here next Tuesday for a rehearing on the second case, a dispute in the mechanical division.

The arbitration dispute arose from the discharge of the worker for failure to carry out the instructions of a foreman conveyed to him through a substitute operator named Wiland.

According to the brief submitted in the case, a substitute operator, at the direction of a plant foreman, told Knippenberg to "put on the equipment" to prepare the plant in case of a power interruption from a local electrical storm reported by the Potomac Edison company.

When the foreman later asked the worker if he had "shut the steam off", he answered he had not put the steam on since, in his judgment, there would be no need since the storm had apparently passed over.

His discharge, on a charge of insubordination, followed.

In his award, Blair said the union request that Knippenberg be reinstated as pump house operator was denied on the following grounds:

The evidence shows orders given to Knippenberg by Wiland covered the duties which Knippenberg was responsible for;

The evidence shows that under such orders and directions, the operator had no discretionary authority but was obligated to comply:

His record, based on two prior disciplinary notices warned him that refusal to comply with instructions would result in discharge;

Allegations against his foreman do not reach to the merits of the justification of his discharge.
